Poultry Flock Of Saanich Man Hit by Plague

A. E. Goodwin Loses 5,000 Birds In Newcastle Disease Outbreak

BY HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

A Victoria poultryman has had his flock drastically reduced by an outbreak of Newcastle Disease, possibly the worst attack ever to have struck Vancouver Island.

The unfortunate farmer is A. E. Goodwin, 1848 Holland. When the disease struck first shortly after Christmas Mr. Goodwin had nearly 3,000 laying birds, and between 4,000 and 5,000 fryers.

More than 5,000 birds have died, and Mr. Goodwin has been informed that he can expect no compensation from the department of agriculture for his loss.

Dr. F. W. B. Smith, district veterinarian in Vancouver, said yesterday that Ottawa had ruled that as the department now supplies a Newcastle Disease vaccine to poultrymen they are no longer required to give compensation for flocks struck by the dread disease.

"There have not been more than one or two small cases of Newcastle Disease so far this year on Vancouver Island," said Dr. Smith. "The result is that many poultrymen on the Island have not taken the precaution of vaccinating."

He strongly advised all poultrymen to vaccinate their flocks, and said the department had sent sufficient quantities of the vaccine to Victoria.

A report on the epidemic first came to light in a farm news publication issued by the department of agriculture in Ottawa and dated February 3.

It said, "A large poultry flock near Victoria has been quarantined for Newcastle Disease, reports the health of animals division, Ottawa. The disease first appeared in the mature laying flock numbering approximately 2,800-2,900 birds. The owner attempted to protect his broiler flock of 4,000-5,000 birds by vaccinating the one-week and four-week old chicks. Apparently the disease was already in the broiler birds in the incubative stage, since in the younger birds the mortality was quite heavy.

"The flock is being kept under quarantine untill it returns to normal health. In the meantime the owner will be permitted to market any apparently healthy birds, if he so desires, without compensation."

Mr. Goodwin was not at his farm yesterday. He had left for the Mainland with his wife.

A relative said that the strain had been tremendous and the pair were taking a short holiday.

The losses total more than 5,000 birds and many of those which have survived are in poor shape.

Mr. Goodwin has not decided on future plans, but authority has now been received to have the henhouses fumigated and cleaned.

Mr. Goodwin started his farm from scratch about five years ago and normally he has about 8,000 to 10,000 chicks.

His main business is in 8-week fryers, but he also has a considerable egg business.

Most of his produce is sold locally.

Vancouver Island, with the rest of British Columbia, suffered a major epidemic of Newcastle Disease in the spring of 1950. More than 200,000 birds had to be slaughtered to protect the flocks and many others died. There was a lesser outbreak in the summer of 1952.

Unhappy Time

Agony portrayed here by Thor Arngrim and Stewart Baker is just one more facet of the theatrical production business. The two Totem Theatre directors have been cast as teachers for Vancouver boy actor, Barry Smith, appearing in the present production "The Happy Time." Barry was given three weeks off from school to play here on the promise he would keep up his studies, and the two directors have to see to it, but they don't have to like it.

Local Officials Concerned At Increase in Alcoholism

Study Discloses One in 40 In B.C. Now Problem Drinker

Local officials, alarmed over the increase in alcoholism, expressed grave concern last night over a survey by the Ontario government-sponsored Alcoholism Research Foundation indicating that B.C. has a greater number of alcoholics per capita than any other province in Canada.

The three-year survey, first of its kind in Canada, showed that Western Canada has a greater proportion of drinkers than the East, with B.C. heading the list with 81 per cent of its adult population listed as drinkers.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said the survey would no doubt receive close study by the alcoholism foundation established recently in B.C. through joint efforts of the government and private agencies. The new foundation is preparing to enter an active organizational phase.

The attorney-general said he had not seen the Ontario survey and would prefer to study it before offering further comment.

E. A. Bergeron, executive secretary of the John Howard Society, said the report underlined the fact that alcoholism is beginning to be recognized by Canadians as a No. 1 social disease in the same category as tuberculosis, heart disease and diabetes.

Mr. Bergeron estimated that 70 per cent of the nation's prison population results directly or indirectly from alcoholism though individuals concerned don't regard themselves as alcoholics.

He stated also that a high percentage of professional and business people are affected to varying degrees by the physical, mental and spiritual disease of alcoholism.

Government leadership in tackling the problem would prove very beneficial, he said, adding that rehabilitation centres had been established in Ontario, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

Rev. G. R. Easter of First Baptist Church, said the survey disclosed a lamentable condition and declared a sympathetic government could assist greatly in halting the spread of alcoholism.

Spokesmen for the Victoria Medical Association expressed surprise that the report didn't show a higher incidence of alcoholism in B.C.

One doctor estimated that one person in 25 of the total population is a problem drinker and one in 15 of those who drink at all is a problem drinker.

The doctor said many drinkers are "quiet drinkers" who are never identified as alcoholics.

"Alcoholism," agreed another doctor, "is a tremendously serious problem in this province."

Incidence of alcoholism is high in B.C. because it is still a frontier province and because industrialization is on the increase, he explained.

The doctor classed alcoholism with drug addiction and juvenile delinquency as the three major problems to be faced in this province.

Another doctor estimated there are probably between 3,000 and 4,000 problem drinkers in Victoria alone.

Spokesmen doubted, however, that there is more drinking per capita in Canada than the U.S.

The report shows that in 1952 B.C. had 2,532 alcoholics per 100,000 population over 20 years of age. Quebec ranked second with 1,813. Other provincial figures: Ontario 1,687, Nova Scotia 1,286, New Brunswick 1,278, Manitoba 1,173, Saskatchewan 1,167, Alberta 980, Prince Edward Island 675 and Newfoundland 501.

The survey said that a higher percentage of Canadians than United States citizens drink.

It states that 70 per cent of Canada's adult population drink, 76 per cent of the male population and 64 per cent of the female population. U.S. ratio is 70 per cent of men and

D. J. Proudfoot Board Possibility

Former Victoria Liberal MLA Capt. D. J. Proudfoot will probably be nominated for the Victoria Public Library Board at city council meeting today.

CAPT. D. J. PROUDFOOT

Captain Proudfoot may be proposed by Ald. Millard Mooney to fill the vacancy made when Col. Walter Mosedale resigned for lack of residence qualifications.

Meanwhile, Ald. Robert Macmillan has been searching for nominees for the same vacancy. Alderman Macmillan's last nominee, Prof. Robert Wallace, beat out Mayor Claude Harrison's choice, P. J. Sinnott, in a council vote.

Professor Wallace subsequently went to the first board meeting and put up a stirring defense for dismissed bookmobile director John M. Marshall.

It is understood Alderman Macmillan had asked Provincial Archivist Willard Ireland to serve, but the provincial government said he could not.

(For city reaction to Ald. Robert Macmillan's challenge to Ald. Brent Murdoch's library board membership, see Page 15.)

Can't Afford Private Line? Here's One Man's Solution

By THE JUDGE

Well, after all the Judge has learned from letters lately, he'll either have to get his phone taken out or get himself off the party line. He didn't know what he was missing!

After this, the Judge is going to be an awfully hard man to deal with on the phone. At the slightest "click" of a listener on the party line, he'll know just what to say to burn the ears off them.

He got a real bang out of today's winning letter. Maybe this is the only real way to solve party line difficulties. Drastic step, though.

Here is the letter.

Dear Judge,

Mine was the kindest, most considerate party line in town.

Whenever I was phoned, she lifted her receiver quickly so the ringing didn't disturb me. If I had occasion to phone she had the line engaged, thus giving me time to carefully consider what to say . . . Ofttimes her winter calls came through about 2.30 a.m., awakening me in time to check the furnace, enabling me to sleep with greater peace of mind until dawn.

And to top it off she now pays my phone bill. I married her!

MORTON GOLD,
2898 Austin Avenue.

(Man! What some people will do to get rid of party line nuisances. What are you trying to do, Mr. Gold, get the Judge hooked for bigamy? Can't marry them all.)

Dear Judge,

A friend of mine lived near Golden some 40 years ago when everybody shared the one line. There were two well-known and incurable listeners-in (call them Mrs. McSnort and Mrs. FcFoo).

One day, my friend phoning a pal of his, heard the tell-tale "click" on the line.

"Be careful what you say, Bill," he warned. "Mrs. McSnort is with us again."

An indignant female voice broke in: "You're wrong, young man. It isn't me, it's Mrs. McFoo."

M. BIDWELL,
599 St. Patrick.

(We guess she got laughed right off the line. Too bad both of the listeners weren't on the line at that moment.)

Talks Open For Deal In Salmon

VANCOUVER (CP)—Sir Andrew Jones, head of the British food mission in Canada, opened negotiations Wednesday with the Fisheries Association of British Columbia for a possible $5,000,000 purchase of B.C.'s canned salmon.

The program was launched last year with the purchase of fishing equipment and tinplate in the United Kingdom by the B.C. fishing industry.

The British purchase, if completed, would substantially reduce the salmon pack hold-over from 1953.

Reds Within Sight Of Laotian Capital

HANOI, Indo-China (AP)—Advance rebel guards pressed within six miles and sight of Luang Prabang's golden roofed palace and pagodas Wednesday night, but the defenders expressed confidence they could throw back any Communist-led Vietminh assault on Laos' royal capital.

Reports received here indicated the advance rebel units were mostly regional troops, recruited to pave the way for the 308th Vietminh Division, still about 30 miles to the northeast. The division, which covered 120 miles in four days, is believed resting and gathering fresh rice supplies.

About 1,100 of the rebel regional troops had made some contact with Luang Prabang's defenders about 10 miles from the city limits, French informants said.

Qualified observers here believe that the Vietminh, if it really plans an all-out assault on Luang Prabang instead of pulling away from its approaches as it did last May, will not likely be able to attack for at least another week.

If the rebels attack, they will likely have to depend mainly on mortars to lay down a barrage opening the way for their infantry.

Gunderson Reported Quitting Soon

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Vancouver News-Herald in a front-page story today says B.C.'s finance minister Einar Gunderson will submit his resignation to the premier Monday.

The story says Premier Bennett will go to Government House shortly after to be sworn in as minister of finance by Lieutenant-Governor Clarence Wallace.

Mr. Gunderson was defeated by Liberal George Gregory in a Victoria by-election last November.

U.K., France Shun Soviet Treaty Plan

BERLIN (AP)—Soviet Russia Wednesday offered Europe a 50-year collective security pact in return for expelling American forces from the continent and shattering the Western alliance.

Britain and France promptly turned it down.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov proposed to the Berlin conference the sponsoring of an all-Europe military bloc of 32 nations with the United States excluded.

French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault condemned the Russian scheme for "aiming not only to neutralize Germany but all Western Europe."

BREAK UP NATO

British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden declared: "This proposal appears in essence designed to break up NATO and keep the United States and its forces out of Europe. NATO is the foundation of British policy. We maintain that NATO threatens no one and we cannot give it up."

U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles attacked Russian good faith and warned that the Kremlin's paper promises had not saved free nations in recent history from Soviet absorption.

Molotov proposed a united Europe with a 32-nation mutual assistance and non-aggression treaty as its foundation. The pact would outlaw the 14-nation North Atlantic Treaty Organization, kill the European army project which would include West German troops and "neutralize" Germany.

Unperturbed by the Western rebuff Molotov insisted that the conference go on talking about his European security plan.

SECRET SESSION

The western ministers, who again take up the question of Asian peace conferences in a secret session with Molotov today, will decide by Friday whether to devote more discussion time to European security at the Russian's behest.

For two days they have been trying to get Molotov's agreement to stop the debate about Germany and security after calling it hopeless "at this particular conference."

Molotov wrapped Wednesday's security scheme in the trappings of "Europe for the Europeans."

Eden found it an unacceptable Kremlin distortion of the Monroe Doctrine, by which the United States once set out to keep European great powers from mixing in the Americas.

ARMIES TO LEAVE

Molotov's plan called for nearly all occupation armies to get out of Germany within six months. Any of the occupying powers could re-enter Germany with troops "in case the security of either part of Germany is threatened."

Eden pointed out that while the plan would bind NATO states to renounce their alliance, it would "allow Russia to maintain her alliances in the East with other Communist nations."

Labor Body Supports John Marshall

Dismissed library employee John Marshall won the support of the Victoria Labor Council Wednesday evening.

The council advocated the reinstatement of Mr. Marshall and the resignation of C. J. Harrison as mayor and of James Neely, Ald. Brent Murdoch and Mrs. Doris Lougheed from the Victoria Public Library board.

Actions of Theresa Pollock, librarian who recently tendered her resignation, were also supported by the council.

Pearson Set For Holiday

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson is leaving for a 10-day vacation in the United States, his first holiday of that length in four or five years. He and Mrs. Pearson will fly first to New York and then continue on to Florida.

Scot Claims Kilt Outdated, Local Clansmen Scornful

He must hae been talkin' through his tam o' shanter.

This is the general reaction of leading local Scots to the heresy uttered recently in Edjnburgh by David McIntosh.

The rash Mr. McIntosh told a gathering of the clan:

"The kilt is an outmoded relic fit for only the museum."

And he had the temerity to add:

"The kilt is no longer a symbol of national pride.

Local Scots rallied quickly around.

"I definitely disagree with that man," said Ian Duncan, president of the Highland Games Association. "The kilt is becoming more popular than ever."

Mr. Duncan said the kilt is presentable in any company, even that of kings.

"I don't think there is a prettier dress anywhere than the kilt," agreed Alex Stephen, president of the St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society. "He's really wrong. Scotland is the home of the tartan. If they dropped the tartan they would be dropping something that Scotland loves very much."

Lieut.-Col. W. J. Mosedale, commanding officer of the Canadian Scottish (Princess Mary's), declared:

"They can't say that about the kilt. If we lost our kilt the esprit de corps of Canadian Highland regiments would drop considerably."

Members of these regiments, he explained, "think the world" of the kilt regardless of whether they have Scottish blood in their veins.

"The kilt is hardly out of date," said James Marrs, a former president of the St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society. "Come to the lower ballroom of the Crystal Garden on Friday night and see for yourself. Local Scots are holding an indoor dancing and piping meet."

Drive Will Help Her, Too

Huge Bombers Explore Jet Stream Over Pacific

LIMESTONE, Me. (UP)—Two huge 10-engine RB-36 bombers blazed a new aerial trail Wednesday by completing a non-stop, 8,700-mile flight from Tokyo on which they explored the meandering course of the jet stream that circles the globe.

The planes completed the pioneering flight in less than 29 hours. The expedition was designed as "a research study of the jet stream in the upper atmosphere" and no speed record was sought.

The jet stream followed by the planes is a winding path of air through the sky. It blows at speeds up to 200 miles an hour from west to east, and a plane that follows its course is pushed along much faster than its engines can carry it. The jet stream hits extremely high altitudes, sometimes 40,000 feet, and varies in locations by seasons.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

ONE of the things I mean to find out soon is—who repairs these station wagons with wooden sides when they are stove in by a collision, or gnawed by termites.

Garages don't employ carpenters. Mechanics aren't supposed to handle a hammer and nails or a wood-saw. So what happens?

* * *

And who repairs the clocks on the dashboards of cars? That's easy. Nobody does. I never have seen a dashboard clock that worked. Garages don't employ watchmakers, and as far as I know there is no such thing as a drive-in clock shop.

Why not simply detach the clock from the dashboard and take it to a watchmaker? Because nobody ever thought of it before. I offer the idea to the public, absolutely free of charge.

I hope a few motorists will accept the offer. It is very irritating to hitch-hikers, for one thing, to ride in a car where the time is always five minutes past 11.

My present car has no clock. The manufacturers have given up the struggle to produce a timepiece that works.

* * *

I once had great difficulty getting anyone to install electrical wiring in a trailer. Car electricians said the trailer was a house. House electricians said it was a vehicle. Finally I got the job partly done by a bold tradesman who was willing to undertake either kind of work.

An electric pump that draws water from a lake poses a similar problem. "Oh, you want a plumber," says an electrician. "No, you want an electrician," says a plumber.

Plumbers hate work anyway. To give them their due, they work without a grumble if they ever reach your house, but they fight like tigers to avoid going there. The only way you can get a plumber is to kidnap him, bind him hand and foot, toss him in the back of the car enclosed in a sack, and drive home as fast as you can go.

* * *

If you have a pleasing personality and a sheaf of banknotes peering coyly from your top pocket, you can sometimes get an oil-stove repair man. He may even turn out to be a plumber as well, but he has to keep very quiet about it. His employer or his union will stamp on him with both feet, if they hear about such a gross breach of the rule of specialization.

There are some men who are qualified not only as plumbers, but also as oil-stove-fixers and electricians. However, their identity has to be kept a close secret, for fear of reprisals. They wear masks, and are driven around by the RCMP at night in sealed trucks, like Igor Gouzenko.

Getting an oil-stove fixed is likely to become more difficult. In a few years' time you won't be able to get the job done without hearing a five-way jurisdictional dispute in your kitchen, involving a stove man, an electrician (to tend the fan), a plumber (for the hot-water pipes), a sheet-metal man and a chimney-sweep (to clear away the soot).

It won't be a case of each tradesman claiming the exclusive right to tend your stove, as you might think. Exactly the opposite. Each tradesman will be trying to make the others do it.

Thor Arngrim of the Totem Theatre admits that the actors had to rehearse the melodrama "Mail Train" on Sunday for next Monday's opening. Time is scarce. "But it was all right," Thor says. "Sam Payne rehearsed only the good people. Because it was Sunday, the villains were left out." Nobody can say the Totem doesn't respect the Sabbath.

For the rest of this week, the play is still "The Happy Time."

Proper Rakes Essential Tools

BY M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Yesterday we had a little discussion on digging implements and how to use them. Today, I think it might be profitable to have a little chat about rakes and raking.

We have three rakes in our battery of garden tools: an iron-toothed rake for creating a fine tilth in the seed beds, a plastic rake of the "springbok" type, with flexible fingers, which we use almost exclusively for raking up leaves, and a third rake with the head made of curved sheet metal and with teeth like a saw which is the best implement I have ever run into for cleaning and scarifying the lawn.

The more teeth an iron-toothed rake has, the finer the soil can be broken down for seed sowing, and of corse, the wider the rake, the more work you get done per stroke. That's for me—I buy the widest rake on the market.

WELDED TO SOCKET

The better makes are welded to the socket into which the handle fits. The cheaper types have only a metal shank which is driven into a hole in the wooden handle, and covered with a ferrule. These are a constant source of grief—one good pull and the rake comes right out of the handle. Buy the first kind, and make the head doubly secure by drilling a little hole in the side of the socket and putting in a wood screw.

If the weather is fine, it is far better to leave the raking of the seedbed for a day or two after the digging than to follow it up immediately, as this gives the soil a chance to dry out a little, so that the lumps of soil will powder down easily when raked.

The first raking of a seed bed is to get it nice and level, and to remove any stones, sticks or rubbish. Following this, the bed should be trodden all over—not stamping on it, but with a kind of shuffling motion that ensures every inch of the bed will be consolidated. Then comes the final raking, during which the surface soil is broken down finely, after which the drills can be made and the seed sown.

In narrow seed beds, I often use the rake handle, pressed full length into the freshly-raked soil, to make the seed drill, and I usually use the back of the rake to fill in the drill and to tamp down the soil over the seeds.

LITTLE BEAUTY

The plastic springbok rake is a little beauty for gathering up fallen leaves. Last year was the first time I had used this type, and it is a big improvement over the bamboo kinds or the ones with wire teeth. The handles are very light, and the teeth have round, blunted points so they don't get all clogged up with leaves. Don't use a plastic rake around a bonfire, though, — the teeth melt.

The saw-toothed rake is a wonderful tool for getting all the moss and dead grass out of the lawn in the early spring.

KEEP HANDLE LOW

Keep the handle low, so the teeth are almost verticle, and move the rake back and forth over a section of lawn with a push-pull motion, without lifting the head on the push stroke. In this way, the teeth clean themselves on the return stroke. This is a most useful rake, too, for spreading a load of top dressing evenly over the lawn, and it pulls the heads off dandelions and daisies before they can go to seed.

Speak Your Mind on Party Lines

Northern Network Kept News Going

Dear Judge,

The happiest days of my life were when I lived in the North and the great big telephone boxes in the homes were going all day with four rings or three or two or one and I could keep track of the goings-on in the countryside . . .

R. STAFFORD,
Duncan

(Yes, but could you keep track of the rings?)

Dear Judge,

I used to phone in to the butcher and baker for my orders, which were brought out by the rural mail man, but the orders had to be in by a certain time.

On our party line was an elderly lady who used to gossip on the phone by the hour . . . I was in despair of getting my meat for supper one night when my son came in and I told him about the gossip, so he picked up the receiver and held it to the other end of the phone. What the result was I do not know, but he said it would almost break her eardrums . . .

OLD TIMER,
Port Alberni.

(She probably never noticed the difference, Old Timer, if she was such a babbler.)

Dear Judge,

My party line took it upon themselves to answer my phone and tell a relative we were out of town because she saw me leaving with the children . . . She did it again one morning. I went next door for coffee, she saw me and said I was out but to her annoyance got quite a blast from my friend when she inquired who was speaking.

Can you beat that?

PRIVATE PARTY LINE.

(Nope, The Judge sure can't beat that. Did you try beating the lady who answered for you?)

Dear Judge,

I think the only people who enjoy a party line are the eavesdroppers.

JEAN DAVIS.

(Now we're getting down to the core of the matter. And now The Judge knows—at last—how to enjoy his party line. Let's hope the eaves drop on any listeners on our party line. Meanwhile, drop a line to The Judge and win yourself $25 for a quip, a suggestion, an anecdote or a complain about "Are People on Party Lines Considerate?")

In Case of Iron-Curtain Fugitive

Orders from Ottawa Claimed Ignored

Charges that immigration officials in Vancouver had failed to carry out orders from Ottawa on at least two occasions during the six-months incarceration there of a 29-year-old fugitive from the Communists, were made in Victoria last night.

The accusation was levelled by James George, Conservative candidate in the last federal election, following a reply to a cabelgram sent by the Colonist to the ship Calygera five days out of Capetown, South Africa.

On board the Calygera, referred to by crew men as "the hell ship" is Richard Nowalinski, a Polish engineer deported from Canada earlier this year for deserting his ship.

JUMPED SHIP

Nowalinski jumped ship in Vancouver last June when he learned her next destination was a port behind the Iron Curtain. He spent six months in a small cell in Vancouver before The Colonist broke the story on December 31. Less than 12 hours later Nowalinski was "spirited" away on the Calygera.

Since then Major General George R. Pearkes, VC, member for Esquimalt-Saanich, and Mrs. W. Rogers, 42 South Turner, have been working incessantly to get the man back into Canada.

The Colonist wired the master of the Calygera this week when it was learned that immigration minister Harris had issued orders that official forms be given to Nowalinski to make formal application for admittance as an immigrant.

The master was asked if Nowalinski had been given immigration papers before leaving Canada. His reply was:

"Nowolinski has not reapplication papers (for) immigration (into) Canada."

Commenting on this last night, Mr. George said: "It appears from the information that was given to General Pearkes by the minister of immigration that his orders are not being carried out by the . . . . officials in Vancouver since this is the second time orders from Ottawa have been ignored."

Mr. George said it appeared that "an investigation was badly needed."

In mid-December Mr. Harris ordered that Nowalinski be released on bond for the Christmas holidays. A bond of $25,000 was offered by a Victoria man but Vancouver officials said that "it is better he (Nowalinski) remains here."

A recent wire to Mr. Harris from the Oak Bay Progressive Conservative Association asking that an "immediate temporary visa" be issued to Nowalinski was turned down.

It was said that the immigration department did not care where Nowalinski was sent except that it was not to an Iron Curtain port.

In a recent letter to Lieut.-Cdr. W. M. Gage, president of the Oak Bay Conservatives, General Pearkes wrote:

"I have obtained an order, passed by the House of Commons, for the production of all papers concerning the arrest, internment, and deportation of Nowalinski.

"I shall keep this case a live issue until justice has been done this unfortunate man. Of course no one can condone seamen deserting from their ships nor the illegal entry into Canada but a distinction should be made between ordinary desertion and illegal entry and that of those who have escaped from behind the Iron Curtain.

FAITH SHATTERED

"From the records in Ottawa there is not the slightest suggestion that Nowalinski has any Communistic tendencies although I must confess from the treatment he has received at the hands of this government it is enough to shatter anyone's faith in democracy."

Two Delegations Seek Job Action

[illegible]AWA (CP)—Two delegations came to Parliament Hill yesterday looking for action on unemployment. A third is due today.

The government promised Wednesday's groups no departures from current policy, and Acting Prime Minister C. D. Howe told one delegation the administration thinks 1954 will turn out to be "a very good year" generally for Canada.

For the farm implement industry, in which there are about 5,000 unemployed, Mr. Howe advised the union delegation that workers should be careful that wage increases do not price their product out of competition, and that there is no immediate prospect of this industry getting back to its postwar peak.

Mr. Howe and other cabinet ministers conferred on the farm implement problem with a 20-man delegation from the United Automobile Workers (CIO-CCL) and the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL), Canada's two largest unions.

A Communist-led delegation from the National Federation of Labor Youth picketed parliament's centre block and interviewed Labor Minister Gregg and Solon Low, Social Credit leader.

Cabinet ministers today will hear a joint brief on unemployment generally from the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada and the Canadian Congress of Labor, the first common effort of the two major labor bodies since 1950. They have a combined membership of 955,000.

Local Officials Alarmed At Alcoholism

16 per cent of women, according to the survey.

Beer is said to have replaced hard liquor as Canada's favorite drink.

The Ontario survey showed that the Prairie provinces ranked next to B.C. in percentages of drinkers, with 72 per cent. Quebec had 71, Ontario 69 and the Maritimes 59.

Average consumption of absolute alcohol per capita in 1952 was 1.48 gallons. Ontario's rate was 1.62, the country's highest.

Abstinence was highest in Canadian farm communities 38 per cent. In communities under 10,000 it is 33 per cent. In communities between 10,000 and 100,000 it is 28 per cent and in communities of more than 100,000, 24 per cent.

Beer accounted for only 19 per cent of Canada's drinking in 1900, but from 1941 to 1950 beer rated 63 per cent. In Quebec, 71 per cent of alcohol consumed is beer.

The survey, which studied Canadian drinking habits from 1871 to 1952, shows that 73 per cent of persons with high school education or better drink, compared to 65 per cent for the less educated.

Island Man Victim Of Amnesia

COURTENAY—Don Munce, a Courtenay man who has been missing since July last when he was believed to have drowned when he went for an evening swim, was found last week in Kamloops, suffering from amnesia.

Mr. Munce, who recovered his memory sufficiently to recognize his wife, was identified by Corporal Gray, member of the Kamloops RCMP detachment, who was formerly stationed at Campbell River. Mrs. Munce was notified and she flew immediately to the Interior centre to see her husband who is in hospital there.

Wicks Says Allison In Temporary Post

The appointment of W. M. Allison to the Workmen's Compensation Board is not permanent, Labor Minister Lyle Wicks declared yesterday.

He made his comment in answer to union criticisms of the recent appointment and said there was general misunderstanding concerning the position.

Mr. Allison was appointed commissioner acting in the absence of Adam Bell, WCB chairman who was injured in an auto accident, the minister said.

ACTING CHAIRMAN

The acting chairman of the WCB is now Chris Pritchard, senior member to Mr. Bell, who was appointed to the acting position by a board meeting, Mr. Wicks said.

Pritchard is a union nominee on the board, he added.

Mr. Allison has served the public in broad fields, including overseas service during the past war, and is a suitable appointee for the position, the minister indicated.

Saanich Driver Hurt in Mishap

Facial injuries were suffered by a Saanich resident when the light truck he was driving went out of control and smashed into a ditch on Lodge Avenue early yesterday evening.

Thomas F. Hunt, 980 Lodge, had just completed a turn when his truck went out of control. The truck was badly damaged.

Police Leave Cut By East Germany

BERLIN (UP)—East German Communists Wednesday canceled all leave for their 200,000-man police army because of unrest in the Soviet zone, but Western officials said the Red regime still was in "complete control."

West German police announced Communist police shot and wounded 32-year-old Soviet-zone refugee Wednesday, the first border incident here since the Big Four foreign ministers began meeting in Berlin more than two weeks ago.

In another development underlining the growing crisis Fritz Selbmann, East German minister of heavy industry, issued an appeal to miners to produce more coal quickly. His appeal emphasized the gravity of a coal shortage which has shut down factories and left homes cold.

Reports that East Germans had canceled leaves for their police army and called back men on furlough came from the West Berlin "Fighting Group Against Inhumanity." The organization said the Reds had brought their para-military force up to full strength in fear of a new workers' revolt.

Officials Limit Mother's Visit

CALGARY (CP) A Calgary man told Wednesday of how he went to Vancouver last month to meet his mother from Australia and bring her back here for a year's visit, only to have her leave the country within 24 hours on orders of immigration authorities.

Russell Wilson, a telegraph company employee, said his mother, Mrs. Jessie Alice Wilson, 50, of Sydney, Australia, arrived at Vancouver January 18, and was deported the following day.

He said she was deported under Section 5b of the Immigration Act, which provides that all persons must have proper medical clearance before entering Canada.

Mrs. Wilson was allowed off the boat at Vancouver and met her son and his wife. Wilson said his mother mentioned tests for tuberculosis and he arranged for her to have an examination at the department of health and welfare in Vancouver. This was done and she reported back to immigration authorities.

He said they held a court and announced she was to be deported and that she would be held by them until a boat sailed the next day.

Wilson said all his efforts failed to change the minds of the authorities. He said his mother underwent a TB test in Australia which disclosed a "negative" report. Wilson said he could not understand why his mother was not permitted to remain at Vancouver until the situation was clarified by authorities.

Dishwasher Arrested In Murder

NEW YORK (AP)—The district attorney's office said Wednesday night a Greenwich Village dishwasher, captured earlier at gunpoint, admitted slaying poet Maxwell Bodenheim and his third wife.

No reason was given.

The capture of 25-year-old Harold Weinberg, only about a mile from the scene of the bizarre crime, ended a hunt that raged as far south as Miami.

Assistant District Attorney Vincent A. Dermody said that after hours of questioning, Weinberg blurted out an oral confession of the slayings.

Left unanswered for the moment was the manner in which Bodenheim's wife met her death. Her stabbed body was found beside Bodenheim's in Weinberg's tenement room Sunday. The poet and novelist had been shot.

Accused Man Really Woman

COLUMBUS, O. (UP) — A woman's successful pose as a man for nearly 35 years, including marriage to another woman with two children, was disclosed in a dramatic courtroom scene yesterday.

Common Pleas Judge Dana F. Reynolds had just sentenced "Vernon M. Bradshaw," 35, to one to 10 years in Ohio penitentiary for men for embezzling $2,000 from an ice cream company last summer.

Then, as if taken from a movie thriller, the drama began to unfold. A man dashed into the courtroom, shouting. He identified himself as Patrick H. Bradshaw. He insisted the judge hear his story.

"Vernon is really a woman," Bradshaw declared. "She's my sister."

A startled Judge Reynolds quickly ordered a physical examination, and a doctor reported that the prisoner was, indeed, a woman.

The judge ordered Miss Bradshaw to be taken to the Marysville reformatory for women.

She said later she had married Vera Perdue, in Richmond, Ind., last August "as a favor" to prevent authorities from taking away Mrs. Perdue's two children on non-support charges.

Marilyn Monroe To Sing for Troops

SEOUL (UP)—Actress Marilyn Monroe will speed across the chilly Korean truce front next week to play eight shows for American servicemen in four days.

Performing two or three times a day, the bride of Joe DiMaggio will sing in a special show at every United States division that the army has identified as being in Korea, except the 24th, now busy replacing the homeward-bound 45th.

The platinum blonde actress will arrive in Seoul from Japan February 16 and fly immediately to the First Marine Division, then appear that night at the Seventh Division.

The following day she will visit the Third, 40th and 25th Divisions and February 18 at the Second and 45th. She will perform at a U.S. air base the next day and then return to Japan.

She will star in the 16-person soldier show "Anything Goes" and is expected to sing several numbers from her recent movies.

The actress will be accompanied on the Korean junket by Mrs. Frank O'Doul, wife of the San Diego baseball team manager. Mrs. O'Doul is an attractive brunette model.

Pope's Doctors Hopeful Quick Recovery in Sight

VATICAN CITY (UP)—Pope Pius XII has recovered from a stomach disorder suffered 16 days ago sufficiently to lead "To the good hope of a quick, general recovery," the Vatican said yesterday.

The Pope has been on a liquid diet since he suffered an attack of gastritis January 25, but yesterday began to take more solid foods.

The Vatican press office said the 77-year-old Pontiff's general condition continues to improve. He is sleeping better, has begun to take foods such as purees and puddings and is able to spend longer periods each day out of bed.

However, the Pope's personal physician, Riccardo Galeazzi-Lisi, and other physicians have not relaxed their 24-hour watch over the Pontiff.

Authoratative Vatican sources said the Pope became ill after many days of worry over the state of the world. He had been depressed and was begining to feel weary, the sources said.

Stomach cramps caused by nervous tension resulted and were followed by an attack of hiccups, fever and fatigue.

Senate Approves Raise in Salaries

OTTAWA (CP)—Parliamentary pay raises, a controversial issue in the Commons, have stirred hardly a ripple in the 102-member Senate.

The upper chamber Wednesday approved the principle of a bill increasing parliamentary pay to $10,000 from $6,000. The measure now needs only final approval and Royal assent to become law. Second reading was given without opposition in 31 minutes; in the Commons the bill met a stormy passage at every stage since its introduction, January 26.

Practically no debate followed the explanation of the bill's provisions by Solicitor-General Macdonald, government leader in the Senate.

Teachers' Pay Equalized

VANCOUVER (CP)—Women school teachers in Vancouver will go on the same salary scale as men effective September 1, the Vancouver school board and teachers' representatives said in a joint statement Wednesday.

The equal pay for equal work is the major change in the 1954 salary agreement negotiated between the board and the Elementary and Secondary School Teachers' Association.

At present the pay differential between men and women teachers runs as high as $200 a year.

The Gorge Waters

ANY serious inquiry which promotes a study of the possibility of improving the Gorge waters, particularly on a regional basis by the city and surrounding municipalities, would be worth while. Early in its career, however, the newly formed Gorge Waterways and Park Improvement Association will need to face the issue of ultimate aims. The removal of sewers from the Gorge drainage system, dredging of accumulations of silt from Colquitz and other creeks in the upper waters of the waterway, and the reclamation of marginal land by filling would all make for decided improvement from a residential and recreational standpoint.

Such a project, however, would not stop silting at the Gorge or promote industrial expansion in the Greater Victoria area, which seemingly is not the intended aim. It is from the Gorge mud that the inner harbor silts up, while from the same area the harbor acquires its malodorous effluvia at low tide. Only the larger project of a salt water canal linking Esquimalt and Victoria harbors through the upper reaches of the Gorge could finally clean and clear the waterway, as federal and provincial engineers have long said. So, quite apart from the when, how and who-will-pay elements of the present interesting discussion, there should come from the new organization a clearly defined aim. Is the joint parks and recreational playgrounds committee after the big or the little fish, and what will be the bait it will use for the senior governments?

It is an open secret that federal public works engineers were greatly attracted to the Esquimalt-Victoria salt water canal scheme, in which they foresaw material developments for this provincial capital as its settlement grew and its industries expanded. Both rail and water are available together at Esquimalt, and it is there occurs a real opportunity for business growth if this community is to keep on increasing in population and one day reach metropolitan proportions. Even little "fish" are sweet, but the big one might be had with perhaps little extra effort.

How Much Longer?

IT is interesting, but not particularly encouraging, to note that the city's legal department is "still drafting" a code for the regulation of domestic gas installations and appliances in Victoria. This has been going on for a year or more, and recognition of the need for control over these potentially dangerous outlets and appliances goes back much farther than that. How much longer is it going to take to compile the by-law? Surely this is a matter of common sense which even a competent layman should be able to lick into shape in short order. The reasons given for the delay—that information is being obtained from other places, and so forth—read more like excuses for procrastination.

In Vancouver the situation is altogether different. There a comprehensive by-law (which probably contains every bit of material that Victoria might need) has been completed; and on April 19 all owners of gas-serviced dwellings, whether they like it or not, will have to install standard safety devices for the protection of their tenants and themselves. It might be said that in Vancouver the matter is much more serious than it is here, but that is debatable. While it is true that Vancouver has had a much larger number of cases of gas poisoning (89 last year and 15 already in 1954), the ratio of fatalities to the number of gas outlets in use probably is just as high here, if not higher.

The government's promise to legislate a provincial code for gas installations is not sufficient reason for postponement of passage of local regulations. The government has given an assurance that while the provincial act will set minimum standards for the province as a whole, the way will be left open to municipal authorities to establish more rigid control if they see necessity.

Those responsible for the preparation of a set of rules for Victoria have had more than enough opportunity to finish the job. It is time to turn exploration into action, before other unfortunate persons become victims of the lethal effects of domestic gas. The occupants of the city's rooming houses piped for gas need this protection, especially the feeble and elderly who cook in the rooms in which they also sleep. An isolated death from asphyxiation by gas might be put down to misadventure, but Victoria's record of fatalities from that cause last year is grim enough to make this a matter of urgency.

Doing Themselves Proud

MEMBERS of the Commons have done themselves proud. They have gone ahead to vote themselves a fat 100 per cent increase, raising the sessional indemnity from $4,000 to $8,000. In addition each pockets a tax-free annual expense allowance of $2,000, not to mention franking and railway privileges and a pension prospect far beyond the reach of the average voter. The magic letters MP are to be gilt-edged and retroactively.

The bulk of the Progressive Conservative and CCF parties voted against the measure but the huge Liberal majority made its passage easy. Probably the opposition members will accept the increase without too much chagrin nevertheless—it is mandatory—but it is in their favor that they deemed a 100 per cent boost too large. That it is. There was considerable warrant for an upward adjustment of indemnity rates but not to that extent. Nowhere else, one fancies, is remuneration doubled when raises are considered.

The government would have been much wiser to accept the suggestion that the new rates be a matter of arbitration via the medium of a royal commission, as Mr. George Drew proposed. This would have removed the onus and the suspicion of self interest from parliament and been more to the liking of voters, few of whom are in a position to double their incomes by a self-made stroke of the pen. The impression that members have fattened their purses may be unjust but it will be the Commons' own fault if that view is widely held. A 100 per cent raise is rather difficult for a heavily taxed public to swallow at one gulp.

BATHING BEACHES

Sir,—We often hear the expression Victoria is like a bit of Old England, but those who have spent their youth in England will be aware of a certain unlikeness, the lack here of bathing beaches. England has countless bathing beaches and many enclosed outdoor pools wherever the coast is too rough or the water of the sea too cold.

Surely it is time something was done to remedy the lack here. We talk about tourist attractions and all some of our businessmen can think of is cocktail bars. I think that is an insult to the average tourist. I have met and talked with many. It would show a lack of intelligence for a man to bring his family up here and spend the summer days in a smoke-filled atmosphere, even if there were a television set. Most tourists come to see the ocean, the mountains, parks and travel our highways outlined by real evergreens . . .

Why not concentrate on something constructive for our young people? To construct enclosed salt water pools appears to be a better investment for our money than some of the very expensive projects now under discussion. Salt water bathing would be very popular with our visitors. It would be a big year for Victoria if, when Miss Chadwick conquers the Straits, we could open our first civic outdoor swimming pool.

COMPULSORY VOTING?

Sir,—Your newspaper published a report recently from Ottawa stating Rodney Adamson (P.C., York West), gave notice he was presenting a resolution asking the House to express the opinion that unless a candidate for election polled fewer votes than the total of non-voting registered voters, then that candidate be unseated and the riding go unrepresented until next general election.

It would seem a stupid situation would result thereby if such electoral districts went without adequate representation for a whole House sitting. Why should a large segment of people simply be penalized because no further plan was available at the time.

Being an opinion, of course, it is likely Mr. Adamson felt such a situation would call for remedial further action of the House. If so, it may be all to the good, but caucus action should first have dealt with the matter, and a different presentation be made.

However, a sensible way around the problem would appear to be a wise administration of perpetual enforced registration making all eligible voters carry a numbered registration card (similar to auto drivers licenses), requiring each person to cast a ballot under penalty of losing certain citizenship rights for one term, and a further tax of say $2, or similar to the Australian penalty.

The plan would certainly, both federally and provincially, provide for a more reliable democratic decision of the people, devoid of present administrative flaws, and be less costly and a time saver.

It is, likewise, time we in British Columbia implemented such a procedure. The mechanics of this plan is not as devious as some might envisage on first consideration.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings"

By TOM TAYLOR

SHERLOCK HOLMES was only four years old when The Daily Colonist made its debut and he is now 100, so it has taken him a long time to become one of us. (I trust you are reading about him each morning, by the way.)

In his heyday of course the Baker Street immortal probably hadn't heard of Victoria. At least he never mentioned this city to Dr. Watson but then he had large gaps in his knowledge. For example, quite unashamedly he told the good doctor that he didn't know and didn't give a deuce whether it was the sun or the moon the world went round.

Now that he is a bee fancier in Dorsetshire and has given up packing his mind with chemistry and crime lore and nothing else, his interests have broadened, hence his consent to a personal appearance in our columns.

* * *

Last reports have it that the master is in excellent health. Recently he has resumed the cocaine habit—it clarifies the mind, he once remarked to a horrified Dr. Watson—which is a bad lookout for the bees. Bees he graduated to after "His Last Bow," retiring then to South Downs to conduct a survey of agriculture and related persuits, criminals having begun to pall.

Some there are, mere literary detectives, who aver that Mr. Holmes is not yet a centenarian, but that historic fact may be deduced easily enough from the record.

Dr. Watson tells us at the beginning of the saga, in "A Study in Scarlet," that he was still aching from a Jezail bullet he got at Maiwand when he first met his future roommate. According to the encyclopedia Maiwand was fought in the summer of 1880, and as he relates the young army doctor was struck down by enteric fever while convalescing from his wound. He was months before being invalided home and thereafter spent many idle hours in London prior to the first fateful meeting with Holmes at St. Bartholomew's Hospital.

* * *

This would be in 1881, presumably, which would make the tall, thin, hawklike laboratory student who so surprised the doctor some 27 years of age, fairly corroborative evidence as I am sure Mr. Holmes himself would agree. Clinching the matter of course is Dr. Watson's statement in "His Last Bow," which celebrated case was disposed of in 1914, that his former Baker Street companion was then a tall, gaunt man of sixty.

Descendants of Mr. Lestrade, the pick of a bad lot, according to the great detective, have naturally tried to denigrate Mr. Holmes powers of longevity, going so far indeed as to suggest he was no longer living.

Why, only last month the BBC held a party to celebrate the master's 100th birthday. It is true Mr. Holmes did not attend, but that was because he was checking over the proofs of his saga for publication in this newspaper. And if it be said with sourness that he did not show up in 1951 when 221-B Baker Street was on view to the public, complete with Persian slipper, deerstalk cap and Inverness cape, the explanation is that he had a touch of gout.

Only yesterday, however, to disclose a deep secret, we had a note from him from about the period at the end of our masthead. It was the only one he had ever seen, he confessed, and although he put his magnifying glass on the phenomenon it had him puzzled.

Dr. Watson would be shocked if he knew of the master's discomfiture, but there you are. That period has baffled many acute minds.

Reports from Ottawa

VETERANS Minister Lapointe will soon tell the Commons about a new veterans' housing plan which he's had on ice for several weeks.

The idea is to broaden the application of the Veterans' Land Act so veterans who want to build their own homes under its provisions won't have to tie themselves down to a piece of farm land which may be miles from their jobs. The new plan will let them build on ordinary city lots.

It's a good idea — but it isn't Lapointe's, or anyone else's in the government. The Canadian Legion laid the whole detailed scheme before the cabinet last November 10, and the government recognized its worth and adopted it. Lapointe has been waiting until Parliament finished consideration of the new National Housing Act before bringing in his new veterans' housing legislation.

* * *

When the original VLA was passed in 1942, the government feared there would be a marked business recession after the war. So provision was made to help veterans build modest homes on two acres or more of arable land. A man established on a small farm holding, it was thought, could at least grow much of his family's food needs, and thus be in a better position to weather a post-war economic storm.

As late as 1946 the government's economists were still pessimistic about the economic future, but the troubles they anticipated, and for which the VLA was drafted, haven't yet materialized.

A result, however, was that many veterans with city jobs weren't attracted by VLA. Moreover, many who did build VLA homes made no pretense of farming. They became merely suburban commuters, which in individual cases was not the best answer to their need for housing close to schools and transportation.

The proposed amendments will jettison the depression-around-the-corner thinking on which the VLA was based, and make the legislation simply a veterans' housing act.

The changes are designed to enable a veteran to build a $10,000 or $11,000 home, either in the city or country, for $7,800, including a minimum down payment of only $800. The way he'll do the seemingly impossible is by literally building the house himself, or at least a considerable part of it, under an extension of the VLA "build your own home" program.

All he needs to qualify is a building lot of any size or cost, with water laid on either a municipal water main, or his own well. If the lot is worth less than $800, he has to make up the difference in cash to establish his minimum down payment.

In return for a $7,000 loan (under the present VLA the minimum is $6,000), he must agree to be his own building contractor, and to take a VLA course on house building. It's planned to set up a revolving fund under the VLA to finance the actual construction. After a home is completed, the fund will get back its construction advances from Central Mortgage and Housing Corp., which will take over the mortgages on NHA terms.

Veterans building under this new section of the VLA won't get the government grants payable to small holding builders under present legislation. But they should worry about that if they can build a new home with only $800 and their labor.

Of Human Vanity

(From The Printed Word)

IN T. S. Eliot's modern morality play, The Cocktail Party, the principal character says: "Half of the harm that is done in this world is due to people who want to feel important."

The truth of this aphorism seems to be demonstrated in several examples drawn from world politics. The ambition and personal vanity of the Kaiser and Hitler were the basic causes of the two great wars of this century, while if a third comes to the point of armed conflict, future historians may trace its source to the conceit of Lenin, Stalin and their successors in the Kremlin.

World politicians, whose vanity leads to war, have the opportunity for doing harm on the most spectacular scale, but politicians and others whose activities are confined to smaller fields still manage to bring upon their fellow citizens an impressive total of harm. As Eliot's character goes on to say:

"They don't mean to do harm—but the harm does not interest them. Or they do not see it, or they justify it because they are absorbed in the endless struggle to think well of themselves."

Ironically enough, the motives apart from vanity, that bring about harm may be good in themselves. One can credit socialists with humanitarianism and a general desire to improve the lot of the poor, but their good intentions do not save them from making an unholy mess of a country's economy when they get power to put their ideas into practice. The good intentions of the Canadian ministers who negotiated the British and International Wheat Agreements are rarely praised by the Canadian wheat farmers who have borne the losses.

Perhaps the greatest value of a strong parliamentary opposition is that it acts as a check on the self-important strivings of ministers of the Crown. When an opposition is weak or ready to endorse without criticism a program put forward by the government, ministers easily win "the endless struggle to think well of themselves" and their opportunities for doing harm become unlimited.

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

ILLNESS as a rule finds itself instantly surrounded by kindness and every consideration. In the home, it is an instinctive response. But in the medical profession, the hospitals, ambulance services, and in a great variety of social service and charitable institutions we have, whether we deserve it or not, a vocational and highly integrated system for no other purpose but to care for the sick and injured.

Surely this calls for some special consideration on the part of the afflicted. Are we, when ill, entitled to lie back and take everything that is offered, and everything for granted?

This question is posed by the case of an old friend of mine who has lately been confined to bed. He is to be operated upon as soon as he is fit; but he keeps putting off the evil day by catching cold, or getting up for a few days and going to a hockey game and immediately having a relapse that puts him back in bed. To be operated on he has to get himself into the pink of condition.

But he avoids the pink by sundry small devices.

His devoted wife is growing a little tired of these repeated takings-to-bed. Especially is she weary of carrying a tray up to him three times a day.

"I don't mind carrying trays," she says, "but what makes me mad is that he is never ready when I get there. There he lies, sprawled all over the bed. And not until I come into his room and stand there beside his bed, does he make the first move to start sitting up. He has heard me coming upstairs. I even call to him: 'Here I come!' But is he ready when I arrive? Nope. There I stand, trembling, with the tray while he, moaning and groaning, starts the slow, laborious business of pulling himself together, turning to pat the pillows up . . . I could scream. One of these days I'm going to just drop the tray and all on top of him!"

I mentioned this to an RCMP friend of mine who commented: "That's the kind of thing that incites murders!"

U.S. Social Security

By EDWARD K. NELLOR
From Washington

PRESIDENT Eisenhower's proposed increases in social-security payments have had smooth sailing so far in preliminary discussions held by congressional committee members assigned to work on the problem.

Two bills to implement the president's plan have been introduced, and the House ways and means committee has scheduled hearings on social-security improvements as soon as it disposes of the administration's tax bill.

Unless unforeseen objections develop, the new social-security setup will provide more monthly cash for retired workers, their wives and dependents now drawing checks, and for those who retire in the future.

At the present time social-security payments for 5,573,594 persons total $250,000,000 monthly. An estimate of the increased cost if the president's plan is adopted — is impossible at present, according to congressional committee staff experts, since new classes of employed may be added to the list.

Some estimates are available, however, based on average payments under the present system compared with what they would be if the administration's plan takes effect.

The average payment is now $49 a month. Under the president's plan the average would increase to $54 a month. At present, the average man and wife drawing benefits receive $84.75. It would jump to $92.25.

The lowest social-security payment per month to retired workers is $25. This would automatically increase to $30 a month if the legislation now before Congress is adopted.

There are 2,977,476 retired workers drawing social-security payments in the country today who are 65 or older. Wives or husbands of those eligible for payments in this bracket total 826,599; 1,033,281 dependent children are drawing social-security checks; 500,000 widows and widowers; 241,809 mothers.

Under the provisions of the new plan, retired workers now drawing benefits would receive increases based on their past earnings and social-security contributions. Those retiring in the future, under the new bill, will draw higher payments under the new schedule.

Social-security payments based on a monthly wage of $100 now total $55 a month. Under the new plan it would be increased to $60.

Those who earned $150 a month are now receiving $62.50, which would be increased to $68.50; those receiving $70 would get $77.50; those paid $73.75 would draw $83.50; those receiving $77.50 would get $88.50; those receiving $81.25 would get $93.50; those receiving $85 would get $98.50.

New York state has 637,124 residents drawing social-security payments; Nevada has only 5,577.

Highway Expected To Boom Tourism

OTTAWA (CP)—Completion of the Trans-Canada Highway is expected to give new impetus to interprovincial and international tourist traffic.

That is the view of the Canadian Tourist Association. Ralph Moore, CTA president, Wednesday told the Senate tourist traffic committee which is making its annual inquiry into the tourist industry.

But the CTA recognized that only through greater promotion of Canada's tourist assets at home and abroad could the industry maintain the gains in tourist trade that have followed the Second World War, he said.

Several suggestions were offered by members of the committee for improving tourist facilities. Senator T. A. Crerar (L-Manitoba) said washrooms in many service stations "are an outrage."

These and some eating places might be brought under a system of licensing by provincial governments with gradings such as are used in some European countries to classify accommodation.

Senator Gordon B. Isnor (L-Nova Scotia) suggested that US currency be accepted at par.

Queen Finishes Strenuous Trip

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters) — Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh returned here by plane Wednesday night after a strenuous two-day tour of up-state New South Wales.

And to forestall any possible criticism that the Queen was tired by the 1,029-mile junket, the government minister in charge of the Australian Royal tour reported that, she was "fresh and happy." Eric Harrison quoted her medical adviser as stating that her excellent health was in no way impaired.

But the Labor premier of New South Wales, Joseph Cahill, nevertheless announced a change in the Queen's program for today to avoid undue fatigue.

He said that after the Queen and her husband visit Wollongong, on the south coast, they will make the 50-mile trip back to Sydney by train instead of car. He added that after the rigorous program of the last few days, the long, slow drive back by car would be too exhausting.

During their visit up-country Wednesday, the Queen and the duke traveled 739 miles by air, 100 by train and 190 by road.

The tour took the Royal couple through almost one-third of the total area of this vast, sprawling state.

Canadian Decision Vital In U.K. Rifle Controversy

LONDON (CP)—Canada's attitude to the controversial Belgian rifle was a cardinal consideration in the British government's decision to re-equip its army with that model rather than a British type.

This emerges from the welter of words in Britain's "great rifle debate," the sharpest of the year in the House of Commons. Labor, stung by the apparent jettisoning of a home product which had received high praise previously from the Conservative government, failed in an attempt to unseat the government.

Stating the government position, War Minister Anthony Head said that key factors involved were Canada's refusal to accept the British weapon, rejected by the United States, and Canada's plans to manufacture the Belgian weapon if the rifle passed tests.

"The point is that Canada has stated that for her government to manufacture a rifle which has been turned down by the United States . . . would be a course which they could not accept," said Head.

His other point was this: "I maintain that in any future war a government which felt happy about having the whole of their rifle production in this country would lack vision."

Lincoln's Spelling Not So Bad

CHARLESTON, Ill. (UP)—The "horid and melancholly disclosier" that Abe Lincoln wasn't much of a speller was blunted a little Wednesday after a dozen high school sophomores showed they weren't a great deal better.

The great president had only 10 months of formal schooling. The sophomores had 10 years each.

An old-fashioned spelling bee proved that some of the sophomores couldn't even handle all of some words Lincoln could spell—much less the ones he couldn't.

The contest was held in the Lincoln room of Eastern Illinois State College women's dormitory, Lincoln Hall.

Dr. Charles H. Coleman, head of the college social science department and one of Illinois' most active Lincoln scholars, fired a list of 22 words at the 12 students.

Half of the words were misspelled by Lincoln in his letters and legal documents composed between 1830 and 1848. The other half he spelled correctly.

Every one of the high school students went down on the first word—aberration.

Lincoln had misspelled it, too. He used two "b's."

The students, representing Eastern State High and Charleston Community High School, were also tripped on appurtenances, a word Lincoln spelled correctly.

None of the sophomores could spell emanation—but then, neither could Lincoln. He spelled it "emination."

In all, the high school youths went down a total of 26 times on seven words Lincoln misspelled.

On the list of words with which Lincoln had no trouble, they missed a total of 10 times.

Bobby-soxer Glenda Johnson scored for modern education and 20th century youth by spelling three words that were too much for the great emancipator.

She was correct on "apologizing," which Lincoln spelled with two "p's," "imaginable," which he spelled with two "m's" and "magnanimous" which he made "magnanamous."

It was Professor Coleman who released a study of Lincoln's spelling earlier this week showing that he also had stumbled with "verry, horid melancholly" and used "disclosier" for disclosure.

A SHERLOCK HOLMES STORY

A Scandal in Bohemia

BY SIR ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE

(Published by arrangement with the estate of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle. World rights reserved. Illustrations copyrighted, 1954, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Sherlock Holmes, investigating the alluring Irene Adler in an effort to recover a telltale photograph of a king, follows the young woman and a dashing gentleman friend, Godfrey Norton, to the Church of St. Monica. He is telling Dr. Watson how he was seized almost the moment he entered.

CHAPTER TWO

"I was half-dragged to the altar and before I knew where I was I found myself mumbling responses which were whispered in my ear, and so assisting in the secure tying up of Irene Adler, spinster, to Godfrey Norton, bachelor. It was soon done, and there was the gentleman thanking me on the one side and the lady on the other, while the clergyman beamed on me in front. It seems that there had been some informality about their license, that the clergyman absolutely refused to marry them without a witness of some sort. My presence saved the bridegroom from having to sally out into the streets in search of a best man. The bride gave me a sovereign, and I mean to wear it on my watch-chain in memory of the occasion."

"This is a very unexpected turn of affairs," said I; "and what then?"

"Well, I found my plans very seriously menaced. It looked as if the pair might take an immediate departure, but at the church door they separated, he driving one way, and she to her own house. 'I shall drive out in the park at five as usual,' she said as she left him. I heard no more. Then I went off to make my own arrangements."

"Which are?"

"Some cold beef and a glass of beer," he answered, ringing the bell. "I have been too busy to think of food, and I am likely to be busier still this evening. By the way, Doctor, I shall want your co-operation."

"I shall be delighted."

"You don't mind breaking the law?"

"Not in the least."

"Nor running a chance of arrest?"

"Not in a good cause. But what is it you wish?"

"When Mrs. Turner has brought in the tray I will make it clear. Now," he said as he turned hungrily on the simple fare that our landlady had provided, "I must discuss it while I eat, for I have not much time. It is nearly five now. In two hours we must be on the scene of action. Miss Irene, or Madame, rather, returns from her drive at seven. We must be at Briony Lodge to meet her."

"And what then?"

"You must leave that to me. I have already arranged what is to occur. There is only one point on which I must insist. You must not interfere, come what may."

"I am to be neutral?"

"To do nothing whatever. There will probably be some small unpleasantness. Do not join in it. It will end in my being conveyed into the house. Four or five minutes afterwards the sitting-room window will open. You are to station yourself close to that open window and watch me, for I will be visible to you."

"Yes."

"And when I raise my hand—so—you will throw into the room what I give you to throw, and will, at the same time, raise the cry of fire. You quite follow me?"

"Entirely."

"It is nothing very formidable," he said, taking a long cigar-shaped roll from his pocket. "It's an ordinary plumber's smoke-rocket, fitted with a cap at either end to make it self-lighting. Your task is confined to that. When you raise your cry of fire, it will be taken up by quite a number of people. You may then walk to the end of the street, and I will rejoin you in ten minutes. I hope that I have made myself clear?"

"You may entirely rely on me."

"That is excellent. And now I prepare for the new role I have to play."

He disappeared into his bedroom to return soon in the character of an amiable Nonconformist clergyman. His broad black hat, his baggy trousers, his white tie, his sympathetic smile, and general look of benevolent curiosity were such as Mr. John Hare alone could have equaled. It was not merely that Holmes changed his costume. His expression, his manner; his very soul seemed to vary with every fresh part that he assumed. The stage lost a fine actor, even as science lost an acute reasoner, when he became a specialist in crime.

It was quarter past six when we left Baker Street, and it still wanted 10 minutes to the hour when we found ourselves in Serpentine Avenue. It was already dusk, and the lamps were just being lighted as we paced up and down in front of Briony Lodge, waiting for the coming of its occupant. The house was just as I had pictured it from Sherlock Holmes' succinct description, but the locality appeared to be less private than I expected. For a small street in a quiet neighborhood, it was remarkably animated. There was a group of shabbily-dressed men smoking and laughing on a corner, a scissors-grinder with his wheel, two guardsmen flirting with a nurse-girl, and several well-dressed young men lounging up and down with cigars in their mouths.

"You see," remarked Holmes as we paced to and fro in front of the house, "this marriage rather simplifies matters. The photograph becomes a double-edged weapon now. The chances are that she would be as averse to its being seen by Mr. Godfrey Norton as our client is to its coming to the eyes of his princess. Now the question is, where are we to find the photograph?"

"Where, indeed?"

"It is most unlikely that she carries it about with her. It is cabinet size, too large for easy concealment about a woman's dress."

"Where, then?"

"Her banker or her lawyer. There is that double possibility. But I am inclined to think neither. Women are naturally secretive, and they like to do their own secreting. Besides, remember that she had resolved to use it within a few days. It must be where she can lay her hands upon it. It must be in her own house."

"But it has twice been burgled."

"Pshaw! They did not know how to look."

"But how will you look?"

"I will not look."

"What then?"

"I will get her to show me."

"But she will refuse."

"She will not be able to. But I hear the rumble of wheels. It is her carriage. Now carry out my orders to the letter."

Nancy Hodges To Study Death Penalty

OTTAWA (CP)—The Senate has taken steps to increase its laymen membership on the joint committee of the Commons and Senate which will study the death penalty, whipping and lotteries.

Members Tuesday night approved a motion sponsored by Senator W. Ross Macdonald, government leader, naming Senator John A. McDonald (L—Nova Scotia), a former cabinet minister in Nova Scotia, and Senator Nancy Hodges (L—British Columbia), a former speaker in the B.C. legislature, to the committee.

The one other layman on the committee is Senator C. J. Veniot (L—New Brunswick), a surgeon and physician. The seven other senators on the committee are lawyers.

Up-Island Beggars Told To Leave City

Two Campbell River men who admitted begging on city streets were given a 24-hour "floater" by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court yesterday.

Keith Morgan, 33, and Walter Anderson, 35, both said they had come to Victoria to seek work. They said they had been unable to find work and would like to return to their homes at Campbell River.

They made the mistake Tuesday of asking the brother of a city detective for money on Blanshard Street.

Neither had a previous record. Magistrate Hall issued a strong warning to Patrick John Corneille, 497 Gorge Road, when he fined him $50 or seven days on a charge of driving while his license was suspended.

"If you come up again on this offense you will be treated much more severely," the magistrate said after City Prosecutor Alan Bigelow read a list of more than a dozen previous driving convictions including one for the same offense he was charged with yesterday.

William Dunn of 996 Southgate was fined $10 or three days for failing to notify the motor vehicle branch of a change of address.

Mildred A. Cowen, 600 Douglas Street, pleaded not guilty to a charge of careless driving and was remanded until Monday for trial.

Michael J. Antoni was remanded until today on charges of impaired driving and careless driving.

One man was fined $10 or three days in jail for being intoxicated in a public place.

HEAVY WATER

A one-inch rainfall on an acre of ground would amount to 3,630 cubic feet of water and, since each cubic foot of pure water weighs approximately 62.4 pounds, the amount of this water would be 113 tons.

Nothing definite has been decided as yet but Don Pries seems almost certain to become the next manager of the Victoria Tyees. And here's a vote for the ever-trying infielder who has served the Victoria club so well for the past three seasons.

It may be a bit of a risk to hand the managerial togs to a comparative youngster who has never handled a professional baseball club previously but it's just as much of a risk to go for a "name." Just because a player spent a large part of his career in higher company doesn't mean that he is better equipped to boss a team. There have been plenty of "name" managers in the WIL, and Victoria has had one or two, who didn't measure up to their playing ability as a mastermind.

On the other hand, Pries appears to have many of the qualities needed in a manager. He knows baseball and he knows the WIL. He has always been popular with his teammates and he would set a fine example for his players with his continuous hustle and enthusiasm.

And there is another angle as well. The Tyees need a playing manager in the interests of economy and Pries as a player would be better than most available veterans and making him manager may be the only way of keeping him as a player. After all, he has had three big seasons here and no one could blame him if he wanted a change of scenery if he has to remain in baseball as a player.

Vancouver Capilanos, it's reported, are on the trail of Cal McIrvin, the good southpaw who played such a big part in the winning of the 1952 WIL pennant for Victoria Tyees. McIrvin, sold to Spokane by Portland Beavers, played semi-pro baseball last season and if the Caps managed to buy him from the Indians, would undoubtedly demand quite a salary . . . Cougar coach Billy Reay, who boated a steelhead in the Cowichan River Tuesday while out with guide Joe Hancock, is already so taken up with Vancouver Island fishing that he plans to lure Doug Harvey, all-star NHL defenseman with Montreal Canadiens, out to Victoria for a holiday trip this summer . . . Seattle Bombers have defeated Saskatoon Quakers seven straight times on Seattle ice. Not since December 10, 1952, have the Quakers taken any points out of Seattle . . . You can get some idea of the bench strength of the New York Yankees when you stop to think they could field a second infield with Eddie Robinson at first base, Gerry Coleman or Billy Martin at second, Andy Carey at third, and the sensational-fielding Willie Miranda at shortstop. That foursome would look real good as first-stringers on most major league clubs . . . For the first time since night baseball was introduced, the American League has scheduled fewer arclight games than the previous season. There'll be "only" 215 this year, 10 less than last season. As many predicted, the novelty has worn off because the big leagues kept continuing to increase their after-dark baseball . . . To the San Diego Padres of the Coast League goes the title as baseball's luckiest club. The Padres, in financial difficulties, sold first-baseman Tom Alston and lefthander Memo Luna to the St. Louis Cardinals for $190,000 in cash plus five or six calibre players. The pair cost the Padres less than $1,000 with Alston obtained for $100 and the San Diego club will start this season with money in the bank and a club already ranked as a standout contender . . . And in case you might have been arguing the point, as at least two Victorians were, Gene Tunney did floor Jack Dempsey in their Chicago fight. Dempsey was back on his feet for no count but it was a knockdown.

* * *

Arguments will always rage among golfers as to whether the Bobby Jones, Gene Sarazens and Walter Hagens were as good as the Ben Hogans, Sam Sneads and Byron Nelsons. Those who favor the modern golfers will always point to the lower scores of today as the clinching argument, while those who back the stars of yesteryear claim that better greens, the lack of real hazards on most modern courses, better balls, steel shafts and the wedge are the causes of low scoring. Well, here's quite a talking point for those who maintain the oldtimers were the better.

Not long ago at Dunedin, Florida, Sarazen won the U.S. seniors' championship with rounds of 67, 72 and 75 for a 54-hole total of 214, not bad for a 51-year-old. But 32 years ago, Sarazen won the U.S. Open at Skokie, near Chicago. His first three rounds were 72, 73 and 75 for a 54-hole total of 220. If yuo were to take scores as a criterion for comparison then you would have to concede that Sarazen is six strokes better today than he was in 1922. Even to the most-ardent Hogan fan, that would be just a wee bit silly.

St. Louis College Enters Juvenile Hoop Finals

Lake Cowichan grabbed a 40-36 decision from St. Louis College at Victoria High School gym last night but the margin of victory wasn't enough to carry it into the Lower Island juvenile boys' basketball final against McMorrans of the Saanich League.

St. Louis College, who won a 59-50 decision in the opening game of the two-game, total-point semi-final series at the up-Island centre last week end, held the winners on even terms in the second half after Lake Cowichan had threatened to overcome the deficit in the opening two quarters.

WITHIN ONE POINT

The visiting squad, after holding the collegians to a 13-13 deadlock at the end of the first quarter, ran the score to 21-13 early in the second quarter to pull to within one point in the series count. But St. Louis College rallied to trail, 26-21, at the half and held their series edge in the final two sessions.

Ed Longpre, Flynn and Kieran O'Neill scored all but one of St. Louis College's points with 13, 12 and 10 respectively. L. Peterson paced the up-Island squad with 13 points.

EAGLES LEAD

Eagles got the jump on St. Louis College in the opening game of a two-game, total-point series for the Victoria and District Basketball Association bantam boys' championship by scoring a 29-18 victory.

In the opening game of the night, Eaglettes drubbed Little Monsters, 49-11, in the opening game of a two-game, total-point series for the city juvenile girls' championship.

Lineups follow:

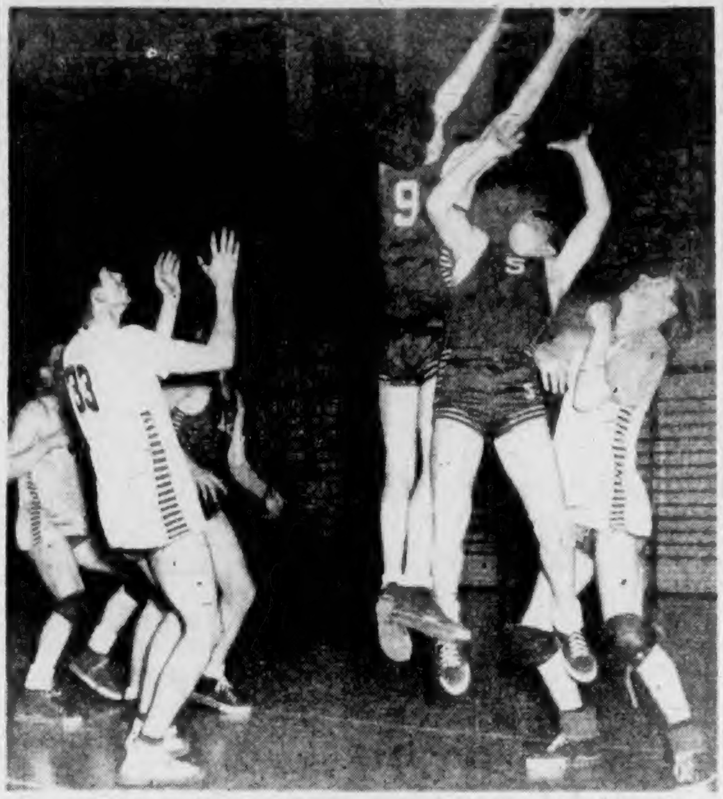
Hoop Playoff Set Friday At Brentwood

Butlers Aces will be seeking to overcome a five-point deficit when they meet Duncan in the second game of a two-game, total-point series for the Lower Island senior "B" men's basketball championship at Brentwood Community Hall Friday night.

Duncan won the opening contest at the up-Island centre Saturday night by a 45-40 count.

Two preliminary games will round out the card. Brentwood biddy girls meet Cordova Bay in the opener and Brentwood Indians clash with Kuper Island Indians in an exhibition game.

Action in Hoop Playoffs



Kieran O'Neill (9) and Ed Longpre (5), both of St. Louis College, go high in the air for rebound during last night's Lower Island juvenile boys' playoff game against Lake Cowichan at Victoria High School gym. Don Carlin of Lake Cowichan (33) waits for possible development along with unidentified teammate who appears to be nudging Longpre with elbow. Although Lake Cowichan took a 40-36 decision, St. Louis College won right to meet McMorrans in Lower Island final on strength of 59-50 victory in opening game of total-point series.

Wednesday night's scores: Boston 3 at Toronto 2; New York 3 at Detroit 2.
Next games, tonight: Montreal at Chicago; Toronto at Boston.

By The Canadian Press

Boston Bruins gained a vital two points in the National Hockey League when they downed Toronto Maple Leafs, 3-2, Wednesday night.

The victory kept the Bruins in fourth place, two points in front of New York Rangers, who downed the league-leading Detroit Red Wings by the same score.

The Bruins, playing on Toronto ice, capitalized on Maple Leaf penalties for two first-period goals and were never headed.

Leafs, outplayed for most of the game, muffed a chance to move into second place over the idle Montreal Canadiens, a point up on them.

Milt Schmidt, Dave Creighton and Cal Gardner were the Boston marksmen. The Leafs goals were by Rudy Migay and Teeder Kennedy.

PENALTIES COSTLY

Two Toronto players and one Bruin were in the penalty box at 15.35 of the first period when Schmidt opened the scoring. Migay tied it up two minutes later and Creighton—with Kennedy serving time—gave Bruins a lead they never relinquished at 19.39.

Gardner's tally at 5.30 of the second period made it 3-1 for Boston, who looked as if they would make it a landslide over the lacklustre Leafs.

Toronto picked up on the offensive in the final 20 minutes but the rally fell short. Goalie Harry Lumley was yanked during the final 90 seconds for an extra forward but the Leafs couldn't dent the fast-closing Boston defense.

TWO FOR HOWE

The Rangers' victory in New York snapped Detroit's unbeaten string at eight games, and came despite two goals by Gordie Howe, the NHL's leading point-getter.

New York built a 2-0 lead in the first period, fought the Red Wings to a standstill in the second period, which ended 3-1 and then held off the visitors with excellent defensive play through the final 20 minutes.

Howe, criticized recently for a "padded" scoring total, left no doubt about his skill Wednesday night. His first goal came as he took a perfect pass from Dutch Reibel directly in front of the New York goal mouth. His other tally, early in the closing period, was a sizzling shot from 10 feet. He popped out of the penalty box, took a pass from Red Kelly and slammed it past goalie Johnny Bower.

SUMMARIES

WHL Directors Set Plans For Post-Season Playoff

VANCOUVER (CP)—Directors of the seven-team Western Hockey League, meeting here Wednesday, set plans for their own league playoffs and a post-season championship between East and West.

The final series, a best-of-nine clash between the champions of the Quebec League and the WHL, both professional, will be the first of its kind in 28 years.

The QHL champions will travel West for this series, which isn't expected to start until late April. All financing will be undertaken by the WHL and the winning team will share a $10,000 prize and the losers $7,500.

Location of the games will depend largely on the availability of rinks, league president Al Leader said.

If one of the four coast teams wins the WHL championship, two of the East-West games would likely be played in Calgary and Edmonton. However, if a Prairie team is in the final, it is "doubtful" that any games would be played on the coast.

The WHL has guaranteed traveling expenses for 20 players on the WHL champion squad and the teams will get a share of any profits.

The directors announced that the Quebec League has agreed to taking over the series on a similar basis next season.

The prolonged WHL playoffs will comprise four best-of-seven series and one of best-of-nine series.

Teams one and six in the final standings will meet in a best-of-nine semi-final, while teams two and five and three and four play two best-of-seven quarter-finals.

The winners of the quarter-finals will meet in another best-of-seven series for the right to enter the finals.

The highest team in the standings will be awarded the first home game of each series.

Series between two coast clubs will be alternated game-by-game. If two Prairie teams meet, two games will be played at each city and then alternated.

In an inter-sectional series, the first two games will be played at the home of the team with the highest standing. If these games are split, a third game will be played in the same city, before changing for the next three games.

Civil Service, Esquimalt In Cup Match

Esquimalt and Civil Service, both of the Victoria and District Football Association, will clash in a Province Cup zone semi-final match at Royal Athletic Park Saturday at 2.15 p.m. for the right to meet Victoria United of the Coast Soccer League in the lower Island final.

Esquimalt edged Heaneys, 4-2, in overtime in a replay of a first-round match and Civil Service advanced to the final by scoring a 3-2 decision over Wood Motors in another first-round replay.

League play will resume Sunday after a long layoff with two games scheduled. Canadian Scottish meets Victoria West at Heywood Avenue Park at 2.15 p.m. and Wood Motors tangles with Heaneys at Bullen Park at the same time.

Edmonton Eskimos of the Western International Baseball League will open spring training at Lindsay, California, sometime in April.

Wednesday night's scores: Merchants 3, Navy 7; Nanaimo 2, Victoria V's 4.
Next game Saturday: Victoria V's at Nanaimo.

BY IAN GLENDAY

Navy's fast-moving Commercial Hockey League team won its fourth straight game on Memorial Arena ice and fifth in six starts last night by drubbing defending champion Victoria Merchants, 7-3. But the Sailors lost all chances of escaping a last-place finish when Victoria V's came up with a 4-2 victory over Nanaimo's league-leading Clippers to move past Merchants into second place.

It was another surprising evening of results for Commercial League fans, who can expect anything by this time and usually get it, and indicated that the forthcoming playoffs may be the best yet. Navy and Merchants have one game remaining and the Clippers and V's, two, but the playoff positions are set. Clippers meet Navy in one semi-final series and V's and Merchants tangle in the other.

BEST GAME

In what was the best game of the night, the Sailors caught Merchants on one of their frequent bad nights and the result was never in doubt although Merchants crept to within two goals early in the third period.

The line of Joe Perron-Del Brown-Johnny Bond had the biggest hand in Navy's victory, accounting for 14 scoring points. Perron, who has given the sailors a big lift since he joined the club midway through the season, scored three goals and passed for four more in the best individual performance so far. Brown got a goal and one assist and the scrappy Bond, who never gives any ground despite his smallish stature, scored twice and added three assists.

Al Millin, who picked up his first shutout last week against V's, was again solid in goal and the defense was back at full strength for the first time in several games. Although he saw limited action, Ted Audette was back in strip after sitting out a three-game suspension. Doug Boettcher, picked up from V's last week, played his first game in goal for the losers and was an unfortunate victim as Navy attackers repeatedly broke away with Merchants lagging up the ice.

In the rather dullish second contest, V's continued their mastery over Nanaimo at Memorial Arena as they took their fourth straight victory and handed Clippers their fourth straight setback here and eighth of the season.

For the first time in several weeks, Nanaimo was near full strength as they dressed 14 players but the hustling V's checked well, and, except for a shaky second period, deserved the win.

Jack Milburn and Les Corby scored goals for V's before the game was four minutes old but Nanaimo came back in the second period to tie it up on markers by Angie DeFelice and Arnie Duggan, who shot from centre ice and saw the puck bounce through goalie Spider Jorgenson's pads.

But the winner came back strong in the final frame and defenseman Ray Fogg got what proved to be the winner and Bob Coulter, who also had two assists, fired the clincher.

Jorgenson made amends for Nanaimo's second goal as he turned in a sensational display between the pipes, especially in the second frame when Clippers stormed to the attack time and again.

Bays Hold Champions To 2-2 Soccer Draw

HOW THEY STAND

Victoria High	2	1	0	1	5	3	3
Oak Bay	2	1	0	1	3	[illegible]	3
Esquimalt	2	1	1	0	2	[illegible]	2
Mount View	2	0	2	0	0	3	0

Wednesday's scores: Victoria High 2 at Oak Bay High 2; Esquimalt 2 at Mount View 0.
Next games Wednesday: Oak Bay at Esquimalt; Mount View at Victoria High School.

Oak Bay High School, minus two regulars and losing a third in the second half, twice battled from behind one-goal deficits to grab a 2-2 deadlock with defending champion Victoria High at Windsor Park yesterday in inter-high school senior soccer league action.

In the second game played yesterday afternoon, Esquimalt scored its first victory in more than two years by blanking Mount View, 2-0, at Mount View to move into sole possession of second place. The split in points left Oak Bay and Victoria High tied for first place in the battle for the Colonist Cup, one point ahead of Esquimalt.

Oak Bay played without Jim Stothard and Dave Edgar, both regulars who were sidelined with injuries, and suffered another loss in the second half when centre-forward Bill Gosling was forced to retire because of an injury.

Three of the four goals scored at Windsor Park resulted from rules infractions. Dunc McCaig put the defending champion Victoria High team into the lead at the seven-minute mark by turning in Thorny Thornthwaite's well-placed cross.

FREE KICKS HELP

Oak Bay got that one back with about 10 minutes remaining in the opening half when Murray Little, taking an indirect free kick in the penalty area, passed to Gosling, who tied it up. With 15 minutes gone in the second session, Nicholson lobbed a free kick from midfield into the goal mouth, where Chummy Crabbe headed the ball into the net, but two minutes later Tom Stothard tied it up for the second time by scoring on a penalty kick.

Both teams missed chances in the wide-open second half with McCaig coming close for Victoria High. Gosling drove wide three times in the opening half and hit the goal post once.

At Mount View, the winners made the most of their scoring chances as they broke away only twice in the first half but scored each time. Wes Umphrey got the first goal and Chuck Bennett was credited with the second when his shot went in off a Mount View defender.

Standout defensive play, sparked by centre-half George Wright, held out the pressing losers in the first half and Esquimalt held its share of play in the second session in pulling the biggest upset of the season.

LONDON (AP)—Yugoslavia defeated the touring Buenos Aires Racing Club 2-1 in a soccer match before 25,000 spectators Wednesday, Belgrade radio said.

Black Draws With Vejar At Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—Newcomer Jed Black dropped 2-1 favorite Chico Vejar for a nine-count in the seventh round and held him to a 10-round draw Wednesday night in a blistering scrap at Chicago Stadium.

The thrilling toe-to-toe brawl wound up with referee Joe White voting for Vejar 97-90, judge Frank Clark picking Black 93-92 and judge Howard Walsh calling it even 91-91.

Vejar weighed 149 and Black 144.

Black, who had won 27 of 28 starts but was making his first main bout appearance, buckled Vejar's knees in the first round and floored him with savage left-right upper cut combinations in the seventh.

England Appears Doomed In Second Test Match

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados (CP)—England appeared headed for its second straight test cricket match defeat Wednesday as an aggressive West Indies eleven, led by John Holt with a superb score of 166 not out, pulled far ahead at the close of the fourth day's play.

In marked contrast to England's cautious batting Tuesday, the West Indians dismissed the visitors without allowing them to add a run to their overnight first-innings total of 181 for nine wickets and then punished the bowling for a score of 272 for one wicket in their second innings.

With their first-innings total of 383, that gave the home eleven a lead of 474 runs with two days' play remaining.

Holt, 26-year-old Jamaican railway clerk, batted confidently all day. He batted four hours and 40 minutes and hit one six and 27 fours.

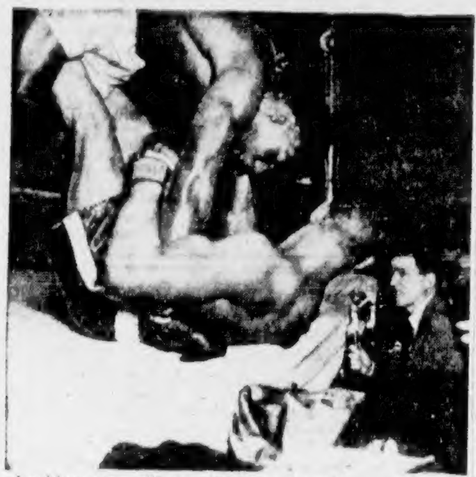
Pugilistic See-Saw



Looking more like a Japanese tumbling act than boxers, Harold Johnson and Jimmy Slade (on top) seem to play see-saw through second strand of ring rope in sixth round of their recent 10-round bout at New York. Johnson, top ranking light-heavyweight contender from Philadelphia, outclassed his Bronx opponent to win split decision. It was 10th straight victory for 25-year-old Johnson, who is looking for a title shot against Archie Moore or heavyweight champ Rocky Marciano.

Hepburn Again Honored; Wins Lou Marsh Trophy

TORONTO (CP) — Husky Doug Hepburn of Vancouver, who overcame a physical deformity to become the world's heavyweight weight-lifting champion, Wednesday was named winner of the Lou Marsh Trophy as Canada's outstanding athlete of 1953.

Previously he won the title in the annual Canadian Press year-end sports poll among the country's sports editors and sportscasters.

Hepburn was the unanimous choice of the five-man board of judges for the award set up in 1936 to honor the memory of Marsh, for many years sports editor and columnist of the Toronto Daily Star who died that year. It is awarded annually.

The judges considered nearly a dozen Canadian men and women athletes, amateurs and professionals, before they chose the 280-pound Hepburn who went unheralded to Europe last summer, won the title at Stockholm, August 30 with a total lift of 1,030¼ pounds and returned practically unnoticed to Canada, except in Vancouver where he was given a civic reception.

Girl Gymnast Captures Annual Award

HAMILTON (CP) — Ernestine Russell, 16-year-old gymnast from Windsor, Ont., Wednesday was named Canada's outstanding woman athlete of 1953 by the Women's Amateur Athletic Federation of Canada.

The award of the Rose Bowl Trophy was announced by Margaret Lord, secretary of the WAAFC.

The youngster captured top honors on the parallel bars, side horse, balance beam, trampoline and in tumbling in her first year of competitive action three years ago and since then has competed in many international events against the best in the United States.

Kins To Open Defense Of Hoop Title Friday

Victoria Kins open defense of their Vancouver Island senior "A" men's basketball championship at Esquimalt High School gym Friday night against Alberni Athletics, a team they have had little success with so far this season.

In six meetings with the up-Island club, which appears to be slightly stronger this year with the addition of playing-coach Elmer Speidel and the late return of Harry Kermode, Kins have come out second best each time.

JACKSON PLEASED

However, Kins coach Busher Jackson, pleased at the improvement shown recently, feels that the club is "ready" and hopes to get the jump on Alberni with a victory in the first game. Second game of the best-of-five game series is scheduled at Victoria High School Saturday night with the series shifting to Alberni for the third game and the fourth and fifth contests, if necessary.

Two big factors in Kins chances of getting the jump on Alberni are Norm Baker and Elmer Curtis. If Baker can return to his old-time form in scoring longshots, it could give centre Johnny Clark more room to worry in the bucket by drawing out the A's defense.

CURTIS MAY START

The hustling Curtis, who provided the inspirational play in Kins' victory over the canal crew in last year's Island final, has been sidelined for five weeks with an injured back but is expected to be ready for the opener.

Jackson said last night that Curtis' ailment has been diagnosed as a sprained back but that the speedy player has felt "good" in the last two workouts and, if he is ready, will start at a guard position along with Bill Bamford.

George Denison who has moved up from guard, and Gerry Parker will be at forward berths and in reserve will be Baker, Don Donahue, Buzz Jacklin, George Woollett, Howie Tooby and Don Hendry, who is expected to see limited action because of a troublesome leg.

REFEREES SETTLED

The question of referees for the series appears to have been settled. Noel Andrews of Victoria will handle the first two games here with a Vancouver official, as yet unnamed. Jimmy Sawyer of Nanaimo will work the rest of the series with a Vancouver referee.

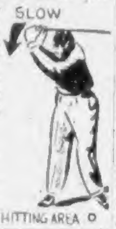
English League Scores 9-1 Win

MANCHESTER, England (CP) — The English Football League overwhelmed the League of Ireland 9-1 here Wednesday.

The Englishmen adapted themselves better to the water-logged field after being held to 2-1 at half time. In the last hectic five minutes they added four goals.

Golf--- Here's How

BY SAM SNEAD



High up in the list of the ten most important rules for good golf I would place this one: play your own game. I have seen too many golfers of all classes defeat themselves by attempting to imitate, in some respects, the good play of opponents. Think the shots out for yourself. Then make them. Every golfer at some time or other has had the temptation of trying to match, let's say, his drive with the long powerful drive of some opponent. Don't do that. Play your game. And you'll score far better. Now to the picture. In the effort to apply more power than can be controlled with rhythm too many players start down fast from the top. The picture shows you the slow area. Up there start the hands down slowly. You should "gather" your stroke as the clubhead moves with ever accelerating speed from the top down through the hitting area into the ball. Start slow, gather speed as the pivot arms and hands flow into the stroke. And prefer, always rhythm to power.

Chihuahuas Still Fashion Queens Of Annual New York Dog Show

BY OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP) — Dog-gone.

That's not an expletive but simply the shape of the Westminster Kennel Club Show today. It's over.

Yet I have a few things to relay in your direction about the show which just closed in the world's largest dog house, Madison Square Garden. The boxers have moved on to make way for the pugilists, but the chlorphyll lingers on.

HAD FIELD DAY

So, too, will memories of the brightest canine fashion show in history. The stylists for man's best friend really had a field day. For instance, did you know that you can buy a St. Valentine's Day collar for your pup, decorated with bright red hearts and vari-colored ribbon? If you have the loot, you can even get him one of solid gold.

The thing that got me was a real doggy bed, done in blond moderne with zebra cushions, which its manufacturers proudly insist "belongs in your living room." Even if you don't have a dog it would be quite decorative, at that.

The fashion queens, as usual, were the Chihuahuas with their rhinestone collars and mink jackets. And people who complain about the price of meat ought to take a gander at these little characters, for instance, one of them, Ch. Golden Boy by name weighs a pound and a half and the owner recently turned down a $4,000 offer. It weighed three ounces when the owner bought it for $300.

That, my good housewife, is $100 an ounce in the lamb chop department and $166.66 an ounce on the full-grown hoof. So anybody who says the Indians didn't live good doesn't know his modern supermarket.

They rang three new ones in on me this year. These were listed as a "Kuvaszok," a "Bernese Mountain Dog" and a "Rottweiler." I can't give you the word on them because the owners were unavailable. But I got a couple of hot scoops about Samoyeds and Basenjis.

I'll bet you three busted leashes against a sack of kibbled biscuits you didn't know that the Samoyed, a Siberian sled dog, is believed to have been crossed with a polar bear somewhere back in the dim dark ages. That's what one owner insisted, and he's got the dog's looks going for him.

As for the Basenji this would be a pip for apartment dwellers. It can't bark. It whines and cries but doesn't bark. A hunting dog from the Congo, it usually was part of a pygmy dowry and said to be worth more than the wife, although that's none of my thinking.

The canine names always hand me a chuckle and they had some beauts, although there wasn't a "Spot" or a "Fido" in the whole 2,000. There was, for instance, a bulldog aptly named "Yogi II." And you'll have to admire the humor of the man who tagged his Brittany spaniel with the handle of "Helgramite Kadiddlehopper."

But the best name of them all, for my money, was the boxer they tagged "Spiked Knuckles." That one knocked me for a loop.

New Comfortmaster Cab. Greater comfort, convenience and safety are offered by this advanced cab. New one-piece windshield gives greatly increased visibility. New instrument panel is easier to read and to reach.

New Ride Control Seat.* Here's real passenger car comfort for truck drivers! Seat cushion and back move as a unit to "float" you over the roughest roads with ease. You drive relaxed without irritating back-rubbing.

New Automatic Transmission.* Offering great new ease and convenience for driving in city traffic and for door-to-door delivery service. Proved truck Hydra-Matic transmission is available not only on ½- and ¾-ton trucks, but on 1-ton models, too!

New Heavy-Duty 3-Speed Transmission.* Rugged new 3-speed transmission with the convenience of a steering column gearshift lever on 1100, 1300 and 1400 series. It's specially designed for smooth operation and long life.

New, Bigger Load Space. New pickup bodies have deeper sides . . . to give you extra load space. In addition, they're set lower to the ground to make loading and unloading easier.

New Chassis Ruggedness. Heavier axle shafts in two-ton models . . . bigger, more durable clutches in light- and heavy-duty models . . . more rigid frames in all models. These are a few of the rugged new chassis features that make the new '54 Chevrolet trucks even more durable.

New Advance-Design Styling. Handsome new appearance reflects the new power and ruggedness of the 1954 Chevrolet trucks. New front-end design is more massive and sturdy in appearance. New parking lights are positioned near the fender corners to indicate the full width of the truck.

*Optional at extra cost. Ride Control Seat is available on all cab models at extra equipment.

CHICAGO (AP) — Grains went into a gentle slide on the board of trade after starting out firm. Just about all the early gains were wiped out before the close.

Wheat moved up most early and resisted the downward trend better than any other cereal.

Billion Mark Passed

OTTAWA (BUP)—Canada's department store sales passed the billion-dollar mark last year for the first time.

A two per cent rise in December sales, to boost them to $142,148,000 for the month, brought the year's aggregate to $1,028,621,000, or 3.3 per cent above the previous year's total.

Inventories at the end of November amounted to $256,519,000, up 11.6 per cent over a year earlier.

Steep Rock Makes Jump Of 90 Cents

TORONTO (CP)—The stock market was higher in moderately active trading.

Uraniums mixed but all other categories moved ahead.

Refining oils and financial institutions led industrials up. Steels and foods were the only lower industrial groups.

Algoma boosted uraniums with a late rise of 40 cents, but Gunnar dropped 12½ cents and Brilund was down 10 cents.

Base metals advanced on strength in juniors and seniors with Steep Rock up 90 cents.

McIntyre paced gold rise with a $1.50 gain. East Malartic day's most active stock gained 64 cents.

Western oils were strong with Grid up 25 cents, Canadian Atlantic up 20 cents and Canadian Collieries 15 cents higher.

Oils Move Up

MONTREAL (CP)—Stock market prices were higher at the close. Trading was active.

Miscellaneous industrials, papers, utilities and senior oils were higher while beverages and steels were mixed. Carriers and banks were unchanged. Senior metals dipped slightly.

Mining prices were stronger in moderately active trading. Steep Rock gained 70 cents. Inspiration 14 cents and New Pacific 10 cents.

Western oils followed an upward trend. Federated Petroleums increased 30 cents, Bailey Selburn 25 cents, Empire Oil 20 cents and Trans Empire 15 cents.

Only Mines Weaken

VANCOUVER — Industrials and oils were strong although the volume of business was below average.

Powell River and MacMillan & Bloedel both advanced 25 cents, and a 20-cent gain was recorded in Coast Breweries.

Higher among oils were Merrill, Canadian Collieries, Canadian Atlantic, Federated, General Pete, Royalite, and New Superior.

There was little interest in mines and most prices were marked downwards.

RKO Stays Active

NEW YORK (UP)—Prices on the stock exchange moved within a narrow range in slow dealings.

Only a handful of stocks managed to move out of the fractional zone. A number of stocks held at their previous close.

Market news contined on the dull side and there was very little in the day's news developments to sway prices either way. Analysts continued to point out that the list was due for a rest at this time because of the recent upsurge in the market which carried industrial prices to their best levels in nearly 24 years.

A few low-priced issues dominated. RKO Pictures continued to respond to Howard Hughes' offer to purchase the company's assets for $6 per share. It appeared on the tape in large blocks ranging to 95,000 shares. It was traded throughout most of the session at 5¼, up ⅛. By far, it was the market leader in volume.

Power System Industrial Aid

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

A new high voltage electric transmission system being installed in the Sooke area by B.C. Electric is expected to boost the industrial potential of the district.

First big user of the new power source is the Goodridge Sawmill on the inner Sooke Harbor, owned by the Oak Bay Lumber Company.

Until December this mill was run on Diesel power. Next week it will start as an electric operation, with greater output and lower production costs.

Bill Gruno, partner in the firm, and the mill manager, yesterday showed me over the reconstructed mill. He expects output to be raised by over 10,000 feet a day on one shift.

It will use 400 horsepower of electricity.

Another mill in the vicinity is expected to switch over to electric power shortly.

NEW SUBSTATION

To give this service, B.C. Electric has installed a 4,000 horsepower outdoor sub-station near the post office at Milne's Landing. This breaks down the power from Jordan River from 60,000 volts to 12,500 volts at which it is distributed.

The conversion from the present 3,000 volts overhead line has been completed in an easterly direction, and the switch-over to the higher voltage to the west will follow shortly.

Gordon Roper of B.C. Electric said that before the new high voltage line was installed it was impossible to deliver large amounts of electricity for any distance in the Sooke area.

"Now there is ample power available for new developments," he said.

Foundries Profit

HAMILTON (CP)—The annual report of Dominion Foundries and Steel Ltd., shows net profit for 1953 at $1,907,356, or 65 cents per share, against $1,826,395, or 61 cents a share in 1952.

Montreal Bonds

MONTREAL (CP)—Government of Canadas were higher in active trading. On the corporate side trading was moderate with CPR convertibles slightly better.

London Stock Prices

LONDON (Reuters)—London stock markets began the new account in good form.

Business in most sections was at a good pace with an uptrend in all groups.

Widespread modest gains were recorded among industrials but extreme gains in textiles and stores were later reduced.

The clearing up of the carry-over position in South African gold shares and the better labor figures resulted in an improved atmosphere.

Coppers and diamonds were quietly firm. Oils also improved.

Closing prices: Babcock & Wilcox 56s, Boots Pure Drug 29s 9d, Canadian Pacific $45⅞, Central Mining 39s 6d, Courtaulds 33s 6¼d, Hudson's Bay Co. 103s, Imperial Chemical 56s 10½d, Imperial Tobacco 57s 10½d, Metal Box 71s, Mexican Eagle 8s 9d, Rand Mines 68s 9d.

Bonds: British 3½s Consols £64½, British 3½s War Loans £85 11/16, British Fundings 4s 1960-1990 £101 7/16.

LONDON (AP)—The Financial Times index of stocks, 139.9, off 0.3.

Ontario Gold Output Lower

TORONTO (CP)—Strikes at mines in the Porcupine area contributed to lower output during 1953 to give Ontario gold mines their lowest production year since 1948, the department of mines reported Wednesday. Five mines closed down during the year.

Output from 39 mines amounted to a total value of $74,818,413 from 8,611,661 tons milled containing 2,153,028 ounces of gold and 353,532 ounces of silver. Production in 1952 was valued at $86,173,698 from 9,998,019 tons containing 2,411,559 ounces gold and 407,767 ounces of silver.

In December 27 mines were active and seven were still on strike. Production amounted to $4,812,841 from 140,897 tons against $7,362,193 from 824,566 tons in 1952.

Indians Claim Aid Denied To Needy from Own Funds

BRENTWOOD [illegible] Three families of the West Saanich Indian Reserve have been refused help from their own band funds, Chief [illegible] said yesterday.

He said four requests for relief were made [illegible] at [illegible] the requests were made [illegible] Agent [illegible] requests [illegible] for a widow [illegible] children and refusing the other three. These were made by men with large families, the chief said.

The men who became unemployed during [illegible] required general relief [illegible] added but the agents said their earnings should have been sufficient for them to carry on.

The general relief comes from band funds, not welfare, Chief [illegible] said, adding [illegible] investigations were [illegible].

The [illegible] members [illegible] appointed [illegible] of a new housing [illegible]. He has been given responsibility for finding ways and means to speed a building program now in progress on the reserve.

At present only one man is engaged in building new homes, all the cost of which is [illegible] from band funds.

St. Laurent Welcomed In Germany

BONN (CP) Prime Minister St. Laurent, welcomed to West Germany yesterday, said he hopes a way will be found to bring the Bonn government into a defense system [illegible] enough to deter aggression.

The Canadian leader arrived here from Paris on his [illegible]-mile goodwill trip around the world. Bonn was the third major stop since his RCAF C5 plane left Ottawa six days ago. Today he will inspect the Canadian Infantry Brigade stationed at Soest.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and most of his cabinet were at Wahn airport to greet the Canadian statesman who then went to lunch with President Theodor Heuss.

At night the prime minister was guest of honor at a state dinner given by Chancellor Adenauer.

Asked at a press conference whether he favors the European Defense Community as the method of international defense co-operation, St. Laurent said he hesitated to express views on the way that the democratic statesmen of Western Europe should conduct their affairs.

He pledged Canada to a sincere effort to contribute to the common aim of achieving world peace. The sole aim of his world tour was to make "a visible demonstration that we realize the value of good relations with other countries."

He hoped his visit to Bonn returning the visit to Ottawa by Chancellor Adenauer last spring, would bring a new chapter in German-Canadian relations.

College Evening Classes

Sales Training Course To Commence Friday

Three lectures on visual education [illegible] sales supervisory and sales training are being offered [illegible] a new course by the Evening Division of Victoria College.

Norman Barton, visual education supervisor of the University of British Columbia, will give three lecture-demonstrations on film and sales training, [illegible] and supervisory training and [illegible] and safety training.

The first of the series on sales training will be given Friday at [illegible] in the Victoria College [illegible].

The course is designed to teach instructors in the use of movie and strip film for lectures on salesmanship.

Mr. Barton will give demonstrations of how to use film and give previews of sales training films at the lectures.

Literature on the use of training film will be issued at the lectures along with lists of films available to firms for instructional purposes.

The second and third lectures will be presented on March 12 and April 9.

Tuition for the course is $2 a lecture or $5 for all three.

Registration will be in the [illegible] Memorial Library between 7 and 7.30 p.m. Friday.

Family of Four Flees Night Fire

DUNCAN [illegible] A family of four was burned out of a home on Drinkwater Road early Tuesday morning. The owner, Clifford Walls, said that if he had not wakened when he did it would have been doubtful if he and his wife and two children would have got out alive. Loss of the four-room bungalow and contents was placed at $7,000.

Mr. Walls said the attic was a mass of flames when he woke about 1.30 a.m. Tuesday. The fire was believed to have been started by the chimney.

Mr. Walls said that when he woke up he roused his wife and she ran outside to their car. Then Mr. Walls roused his eldest son, four-year-old Raymond, outside to join his mother and carried two-year-old Larry to the car.

TELEPHONE OUT

The fire burned out the telephone line and Mr. Walls had to go to the home of Bob Batty, a neighbor, to call the North Cowichan municipal fire crew. Then Mr. Walls and Mr. Batty saved a washing machine that was on the back porch. Some of the children's clothing was saved when Mr. Walls threw it out of the bedroom window after getting his wife out. When it was discovered that Mrs. Walls had left her glasses in the bedroom, her husband climbed up a ladder and back into the bedroom to get them. At the same time he saved her shoes.

"It was fortunate that we closed the bedroom door when we left that room or I would never have got into it again," he said.

Mrs. Dorothy Walls was just recovering from the mumps, and she was taken to King's Daughters Hospital suffering from exposure. The two boys are with a neighbor and Mr. Walls is staying with a brother.

OPERATOR PRAISED

Perry Ross, works superintendent of North Cowichan and chief of the municipal fire crew, gave great credit to the telephone operator, who summoned the assistance of neighbors while the firemen were getting to the scene.

Mr. Ross said, however, that the fire had such a hold on the house when the fire crew got there that it was impossible to save it. "We could only content ourselves with reserving our 200-gallon tank of water for use in case we needed it to save the nearby garage and toolshed or a neighbor's home."

INSURED PROMPTNESS

The word "tip" originated from the first letters of the phrase, "to insure promptness," which appeared on coin boxes placed in early English barber shops.

House Opening Prevents Wicks Attending Convention of IWA

Opening of the legislature next week will prevent attendance of a department of labor representative at the district convention of the International Woodworkers of America (CIO-CCL).

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks said he has had to decline an invitation to speak to the delegates. The convention committee was unable to arrange an alternative date for the department.

The four-day convention of IWA members throughout the province will be addressed by a national officer of the Canadian Congress of Labor and IWA international officers.

International president A. F. Hartung, Portland, will be present.

Business sessions beginning Monday morning will include resolutions from 12 locals in BC, representing about 32,000 members, proposed amendments to legislation affecting trade unions and political action.

Resolutions dealing with new contract demands are expected to be referred to a wages and contract conference separate from the convention and at a later date.

Sgt. Noble is chief [illegible] for Station CFWH, one of three Canadian armed forces radio stations.

Sgt. Noble likes army life as much today as he did 11 years ago when he joined. He describes his work in radio as his hobby.

The Yukon has been enjoying a spell of mild weather recently, he said. It was raining when he left Whitehorse on Sunday.

Title 'Progressive' Irks B.C. Tories

B.C. Conservatives appear to be getting ready to scrap the word "progressive" now used as part of the title of their party.

Local Conservatives gave a resounding stamp of approval last night to action of North Vancouver Conservatives who voted this week to remove the word from their branch name.

In future the branch will be known as the North Vancouver Conservative Association.

OPPOSED BY ANSCOMB

Herbert Anscomb, former leader of B.C. Conservatives, declared he has always opposed use of the word "progressive" in the party title.

"The Conservative party has always led the nation in progressive thought anyway," he commented.

James George, a leader in party activities here, applauded the North Vancouver move.

Mr. George said the executive of the B.C. party at a meeting last month went on record in favor of switching back to the former name of the party. He explained, however, that it will take a motion of the annual general meeting of provincial Conservatives in the fall to actually make the change.

Mr. Anscomb holds the opinion that the change can only be legalized at a national convention of Conservatives.

USED AS BRACKEN AID

The word "progressive" was included in the Conservative party title some years ago, according to Mr. George, to make it easier for John Bracken, who had been a Liberal-Progressive, to take over as leader of Canadian Conservatives.

"I've always been against this," said Mr. George. "It was a move of expediency."

He said he is having historical records checked to see if "progressive" had ever been a part of the official title of the party before bringing a motion for removal of the word to a meeting of the Oak Bay party association. (The term "Progressive Conservative" was used by Sir John A. MacDonald, first Conservative prime minister.)

Mr. George said he was sure at least half a dozen similar motions would be brought to the annual meeting in the fall.

—AROUND TOWN—

An exhibition of historical and contemporary photos will open on Monday in the rotunda of the Legislative Buildings.

The show, sponsored by the Professional Photographers' Association of B.C., will include pictures of early British Columbia, and prints of about 24 of the photos of famed U.S. civil war photographer Mathew Brady.

Willard Ireland, provincial archivist, is selecting representative photos of early B.C. to include in the display.

There will also be photos by contemporary Victoria photographers. The exhibition will remain in the rotunda about two weeks.

The annual convention of the Professional Photographers' Association of B.C. will be held in Victoria this year during the B.C. Products Fair.

Burglars who stole $110 in cash from the Canada Cafe, 1625 Government Street, early yesterday morning gained entry through a rear transom.

The money was in a cardboard carton kept in a padlocked showcase near the front window.

The culprit apparently had a key to fit the padlock.

Ninety-five dollars of the missing cash was in silver.

Also taken were five cartons of cigarettes, half a box of White Owl cigars, a box of 30 Trump cigars and chewing gum.

Police believe a coffee strainer bag which was stolen was used to carry off the loot.

James A. Mathews reported to city police theft of his wallet and a pair of gloves from his coat, probably while it was left in the Atlas Barber Shop where he works.

The wallet contained valuable papers and his driver's license.

A car stolen from the front of the home of A. G. Harris, 120 Ontario Street, was recovered by city police yesterday morning in the Atom Lumber Company yard.

Caddy Stars In New Story

Arthur Mayse, wellknown Victorian author, has sold a short story to The Saturday Evening Post in which Victoria's famed sea serpent, Caddy, is one of the central characters.

The story, which Mr. Mayse estimates will not appear for several months, features Caddy "as large as life, or maybe a little larger," he said.

Mr. Mayse is the author of "Perilous Passage," which was serialized in the Post and later appeared in book form, and "Desperate Search," which was also a serial in the Post and later made into a movie.

National Ballet Company To Appear in Victoria

One of Canada's own ballet dance companies, the National Ballet, will come to Victoria for three days next month.

Sponsored by the Victoria Kiwanis Club, the largest Canadian ballet company ever to go on tour will dance at the Royal Theatre March 15, 16 and 17.

The club is also going to sponsor the Victoria appearance of the Winnipeg Ballet Company in May, but no further details on this event are available, club spokesmen said yesterday.

In the past there has been little opportunity for the public to see good Canadian ballet in action, and not much more chance for dance companies to earn a living in Canada.

But in 1951, the National Ballet Guild of Canada was formed by a group of citizens who believed that a professional ballet troup was necessary for the future of the dance in this country.

Lois Smith and David Adams, principal dancers of the National Ballet, will be seen here with the company on March 15, 16 and 17. Sponsored by the Victoria Kiwanis Club, the company will perform the new ballet "Dark of the Moon," as well as favorites like "Lilac Garden," in which they are seen here.

CELIA FRANCA

The aim of the group has been to give full-time employment to Canadian artists by founding summer schools for students and teachers, and presenting the National Ballet Company.

Since the founding of the guild, the repertoire of the company has built rapidly, until it now compares favorably with most other big dance companies throughout the world.

The continental tour of the company this year marks the second entry of the group into the United States.

It made its U.S. debut in August last year at the Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival in Massachusetts.

Critics from both Canada and the U.S. were unanimous in their praise of the performances.

Walter Terry of the New York Herald Tribune called it "a fine new company with ideals and ideas, with youth, strength and good taste."

With their appearance in Victoria in March will be the showing of a new ballet, "Dark of the Moon," by Ontario choreographer Joey Harris.

Mr. Harris played the male lead in the same stage play at the Dominion Drama Festival last year, and took the theme of it for the new ballet.

He turned to another Ontario artist, composer Louis Applebaum for the music, and between them turned out a smash hit dance story.

Two other ballets, by Anthony Tudor, "Lilac Garden," and "Gala Performance," will also be seen here.

Artistic director-ballerina Celia Franca stole the show from all other events at the Canadian National Exhibition with her performance as "Giselle" in "Midsummer Night's Dream."

She is an outstanding and internationally recognized artist in the dance world and as a choregrapher and ballet mistress.

While only 15, she was a dancing member of the Ballet Rambert Company.

At the beginning of the Second World War she joined the Three Arts Ballet, at that time the only ballet company operating in London, England. Here she made her first appearance as a choreographer, but the Ballet Rambert reclaimed her.

After a tour with the Ballet Joos through Europe and the Metropolitan Ballet she did dance work for the BBC.

Miss Franca was called to the National Ballet in 1951 when the guild was looking for someone to guide the new venture.

Since joining the guild, Miss Franca has scoured Canada for the finest talent she could find. Hundreds of dancers from all parts of the country attend her annual summer school, and she spends part of the year touring the country interviewing possibles.

The company also has a man and wife team of principal dancers, Lois and David Adams. For stage use, Mrs. Adams is known as Lois Smith.

Both are natives of Vancouver and Lois danced leads in the Theatre Under the Stars production as well as the touring American companies of "Oklahoma," and "Song of Norway."

David got his training in Winnipeg and won a scholarship to the Sadler's Wells Ballet School in London.

Ballet enthusiasts in Victoria are to have three days of this Canadian company, and if the tour is a success, more in years to come.

A number of TV fans in different parts of the city have reported strong interference on low-band stations during the past few nights.

The interference spoils reception from about 8 p.m. to 9.30, according to reports. Electronic medical equipment, radio beacons and two-way taxi radios are suggested by readers as the possible cause of the trouble.

"TV Talk" has taken up its magnifying-glass and peaked cap in search of the culprit. Readers are invited to assist by advising, by letter, details of any such interference with television reception.

This is probably the time to repeat the story about the Victorian who took his radio to a repair shop because it was noisy.

After fighting with the serviceman because he didn't eliminate the noise, the man consulted the radio inspector, who located the trouble.

The set owner was brewing some beer and had draped his electric heating pad around the crock to keep it warm.

Monoxide Gas Kills Nanaimo Sheriff

NANAIMO—An old newspaperman had a tragic "30" written to his life late Tuesday night.

Sheriff William Baker ("Bus") McKenzie, 42, popular court official of this district, died apparently from the effects of carbon monoxide poisoning as he worked on his car in the garage of his home.

He took over the position of sheriff in April 1949 following the death of the former officer, veteran Sheriff Coveney.

An ardent amateur mechanic, Mr. McKenzie prided himself that he always kept his car in tip-top shape, and it was during a repair job resulting from recent difficult conditions, that he met his death. When his wife, becoming alarmed after a long absence, found him in the garage he was near the rear end of the car, a screwdriver and wrench at his side.

INQUEST MONDAY

Coroner H. W. Lewis has ordered an inquest for Monday.

"Bus" was a beloved local boy. When he worked with the old morning Nanaimo Herald he gained a host of friends as a reporter and subsequently became editor at the age of 21, one of the youngest men to hold a high newspaper post in his day.

He enlisted at outbreak of the Second World War and went overseas in 1940 with the Westminster Regiment, winning his discharge in 1946. On his return to Nanaimo he was associated with the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service.

WORK WELL KNOWN

Thoroughly acquainted with members of the bench and bar, his efficiency at court proceedings was a byword here and his work as sheriff was known not only for its efficiency, but also as a tribute to a warm heart and a kindly thought for all.

He was grandson of the late C. C. McKenzie, a member of parliament for Nanaimo in the nineties.

He was a member and director of the Kiwanis Club. He married overseas and is survived by his wife, Patricia and a daughter, Margaret; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben McKenzie of Nanaimo; four brothers, Kenneth, Frederick, Alvin and Roderick, Nanaimo; five sisters, Mrs. T. G. Stevenson, Mrs. Thomas Aiken and Mrs. E. A. Anderson of Nanaimo and Mrs. J. Fogden of Victoria; Mrs. E. H. Sharpe, Wellington.

Remains repose at Westwood Chapel of Flowers where funeral arrangements are pending.

Ald. Murdoch's Appointment Legal, City Solicitor Rules

A suggestion that Ald. Brent Murdoch is ineligible for the Victoria Public Library Board has been discounted by City Solicitor Arthur Patton.

Ald. Robert Macmillan, who fought Alderman Murdoch's original appointment, raised the question of eligibility yesterday. He referred to Sections 24 and 25 of the Public Libraries Act to support his case.

Mr. Patton said later yesterday Alderman Macmillan was wrong in his interpretation of the act. The solicitor said Mayor Claude Harrison agreed that Alderman Murdoch's appointment is quite legal.

Alderman Macmillan questioned his fellow alderman's right to sit on the board on the grounds of residence. Alderman Murdoch lives in Oak Bay but is co-owner of a business in the city.

SECTIONS OF ACT

Here are the two Public Libraries Act sections which Alderman Macmillan feels conflict. Section 25 says:

"No person shall be appointed to the board unless he is a British subject, and has resided in the municipality for not less than six months last preceding his appointment." Section 24 says:

"The board shall be composed of the mayor or reeve of the municipality or a member of the municipal council selected by such council, and two, four or six other persons selected and appointed by the municipal council, chosen with reference to their fitness for such office and being residents or electors of the municipality . . ."

CITY "ELECTOR"

Alderman Murdoch is not a resident of the city but on the other hand he is an "elector" in the city.

Mr. Patton says further that the council representative is "selected" whereas the others are "selected and appointed." He states that the six months' residence ruling applies only to those "appointed"—that is, the non-council board members.

An amendment to the Public Libraries Act which would remove any question of Ald. Brent Murdoch's right to sit on the library board probably will be put before the legislature at its coming session.

CLEAR SITUATION

The amendment, which has been resting in a government pigeonhole for a year and a half, would clear up an admitted ambiguity in the act.

Precise wording of the amendment is not known, but it would allow any alderman, whether or not he lived in the city, to hold a library board seat.

The Public Libraries Commission which seeks the amendment takes the view that any person qualified to serve on a city council should also be qualified to sit on a library board which is a creature of the council.

Victims Of Polio Ask Aid

Requests for help to rehabilitate persons struck by polio more than a year ago are beginning to be received in large numbers, Kinsmen Clubs here report.

They said that much of the rehabilitation of many persons who suffered from the disease will not begin actively until probably this summer. Many patients have to await doctors' reports that they are physically fit to begin rehabilitation in special rehabilitation centres, including one at Vancouver.

Post-polio treatment, of course, begins in hospitals.

LONG PULL

The long pull toward recovery is helped by the B.C. Polio Fund, administered here by the two city clubs who are co-ordinating the Mothers' March on Polio campaign for funds Saturday night at 6.30 p.m.

Funds from this drive will be used for aid to patients' families where required, help to polio sufferers, and to institutions where patients are treated.

It is hoped to raise about $30,000 through an hour-long drive, in which 3,000 mothers will participate. Start of the drive will be signalled in various ways, including sounding of a company whistle, and firing of the "nine o'clock gun" at 6.30.

TO DROP PAMPHLETS

Friday afternoon three private aircraft will drop thousands of pamphlets over Greater Victoria. To be dropped immediately after school is out, 100 of the pamphlets will be worth $1 each. Certain pamphlets have been marked as lucky and prizes will be given by Ron Page.

The dropping of the advertising media has been slated for Saturday.

Kits for the drive, when residents will be asked to turn on porch lights to signify their co-operation with the campaign, are being distributed to area "mothers" and should be in hands of individual canvassers by Friday.

Rural areas are expected to participate keenly in the drive.

Store Fire Causes Small Loss

A fire which broke out in some old packing cases in the basement of the Wedgwood China Shop, Government and Courtney, resulted in slight damage, city police reported last night.

Fireman J. Perry suffered a bad cut to his right hand when the door of the stockroom in the building had to be broken down. He was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital. The blaze occurred at 8.45 p.m.

Victorian Given Post

Harold B. Whitfield of Victoria was elected vice-president of the B.C. Regional Council of the National Unemployment Insurance Commission Association annual meeting in Vancouver.

President D. Shields, New Westminster, said highlights of the year were implementation of the five-day week, the check-off and the recent salary increase to federal civil servants.

Clothing Set Afire

Mother, Daughter Seriously Burned

DUNCAN—An elderly woman and her daughter are in serious condition after an early-morning fire Wednesday.

In King's Daughters' Hospital with extensive third-degree burns to the body and arms are Mrs. A. M. Barrett and her daughter, Mrs. Ivy Hollen, of 732 Trunk Road. Their doctor described their condition late yesterday as "very grave."

The fire started when Mrs. Hollen was lighting a heater in the living room of the downstairs part of the five-room house. Her night clothes caught fire and when her mother tried to put out the flames her clothing also caught fire.

FOUND IN KITCHEN

Dick Price, a close neighbor, was first on the scene and found the two women sitting in the kitchen, suffering from shock. Mr. Price said the fire was gaining and he could not find anything to wrap the two women in to take them outside.

The fire department inhalator truck and Kyle's ambulance arrived almost simultaneously and the two women were wrapped in blankets and taken to hospital, where they were given emergency treatment and placed under the care of Dr. E. N. Hughes.

Hindering her movements, Mrs. Hollen was only recently discharged from hospital, after suffering a fractured leg, and still wore a cast. Mrs. Hollen is about 45, and her mother is 75.

The living room where the fire started was badly damaged. The building, an ancient landmark along Trunk Road, was said by Mayor J. C. Wragg yesterday afternoon to be slated to be condemned. There is no city water in the house and no plumbing.

"We would never let anyone live in there again," Mayor Wragg said. Police ordered the building boarded up pending an investigation of the fire.

Dick Watson, about 60, who lived at the Barrett home, said he was awakened by the smell of smoke. He was not clear as to the cause of the fire, but escaped uninjured.

A chesterfield and other furniture thrown outside by the firemen lay smoldering in the yard all day. Many sightseers wandered through the house until it was ordered boarded up.

Three Admit Guilt

NANAIMO—Three men, snapped up rapidly by RCMP Tuesday night following a house breaking and holdup attempt in Nanaimo and South Wellington, pleaded guilty in police court yesterday and were remanded for sentence by Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts.

Peter Walter Spangle, Saltair, admitted the holdup of the James Rucklidge store in South Wellington south of the city, obtaining $100. He was apprehended while heading northward in a car.

Harold Pierce and Cyril Good admitted entering the basement apartment of Dr. J. R. Hovey on Vancouver Avenue, Nanaimo. They were spotted by Jack Harrison, building owner.

Spangle held up Tom and Jack Rucklidge at South Wellington as they prepared to close the store. He simulated a gun through his coat pocket. He admitted also a car theft.

Dr. A. Gunning Guest Speaker

Dr. A. Gunning was guest speaker at a meeting of the Victoria Dental Assistants' Association held in the Strathcona Hotel on Tuesday.

He spoke on gold inlays and showed a film on amalgams.

Association president, Miss Yvonne Taylor presided.

Press Cameras Barred From House Opening

Press photographers have been barred from taking pictures of the official opening of the spring legislative session next Tuesday.

Only photographers allowed in the legislative chamber galleries will be a CBC television cameraman, and a government still photographer who will make pictures available to the newspapers.

Speaker Thomas Irwin said the ban on press photographers was to eliminate the nuisance of "a lot of flashbulbs going off."

The television cameraman, Paul Johnson, said he would use a hand camera and only three small reflector-floodlights and that his work would not interfere with the dignity of the ceremonies.

Choice of Diplomats Vital to Far East

Dr. W[illegible] Newton referred to [illegible] the key to the future of the [illegible] of south [illegible] when he spoke to the Local Council of Women yesterday at their annual meeting in the YWCA.

The famed agriculturist has recently returned from an 11 months' stay in Ceylon where he was representing the United Nations.

He presented a [illegible] picture of the hearts and minds of the people of Ceylon and of [illegible] where his return [illegible] quarters were [illegible] but he stated China was the point to watch in the East.

He said the people of Malaya, Indonesia and Burma had been influenced by China for so many years that they were watching intently to see how she fares under Red domination.

"If China builds up under the Soviet, these adjacent countries are likely to go with the Eastern block."

EXPANSION PROGRAM

"I cannot emphasize enough," he continued, "how important it is that we send the right kind of diplomats to the Far East countries. And it is equally as important that these chosen diplomats encourage the right kind of technical men to follow them."

Dr. Newton explained that the Ceylonese, for example, were most anxious not only to expand their tea and coconut industries, but to build new ones.

"If we can only send them the right sort of technical people, and by that I mean people of insight who will see their problems sympathetically, they will never forget who has helped them to help themselves."

Dr. Newton stressed the fact that the people of Ceylon had a great culture behind them, mentioning that there were ruins of a city as large as London on the island. He also said there was an ancient system of irrigation which modern engineers have marvelled at. As an example of how the Ceylonese are trying to "help themselves" he said they were mapping the system in order to try to re-establish it.

Dr. Newton was thanked by Miss Ethel M. Bruce who spent some time in Ceylon a year ago.

Cigarette Machines Condemned

Liquor and cigarettes were the subjects of resolutions passed at the annual meeting of the Victoria Presbyterial of the Presbyterian Women's Missionary Society.

The resolutions read:

"Be it resolved that we support the stand of the Greater Victoria Citizens' Committee on request for a plebiscite on the liquor outlet question."

FOR WOMEN

By Dorothy Wrotnowski

Every year at this time the women's pages of the daily newspaper become flooded with fashion news after the top designers of London and Paris have held their spring shows. And every year it seems just as confusing as the fashion writers vie with each other and the dictionary to describe the styles.

Just what women will be wearing seems to be anybody's guess or better perhaps a choice.

In the Paris shows, Jacques Fath and Hubert de Givenchy seem to have come out on top. Both are reported as favoring the princess and the sheath line and what one writer terms as "pert youthfulness and spring-like accessory touches."

Fath is reported to have launched a new stalk silhouette and his whole collection is based on the use of darts [illegible] the slender-moulded, beltless waistline with bodice emphasis on empire effects and the slightly wider-domed princess line. These darts shape the waistline, undercut and throw fullness into the bosom and arch the hips in clever play of horizontal, vertical, stepped and fan shaped ones.

Please read the above paragraph again carefully so that you will be able to picture Douglas street with figures to the right and left of you "domed at the top, darted in the middle and arched at the hips." A bit startling although I'm glad it is the clothes they are going to change and not the frame. I'd hate to start practicing arching my hips [illegible] for the sake of fashion.

The "ravine" and "lasso" neckline were news from another designer and in London they were decorating white linen coats with Canadian silver fox. Every color is on the list if you check over the favorites from each designer so you are safe from candle pink to baby blue.

Embroidered fabrics splattered with four leaf clovers, silvery fish, tortoises, lily of the valley and bamboo shoots also appear in the picture. The rose has been named the flower of the day.

Slacks, according to one writer, have "drain-pipe legs slimmer than ever" but the interest is centred at the waistline where huge patch pockets flap at the side. Matching waistcoats go along with the pants. Shorts are to be shorter and so it goes.

As I said before it all seems a little confusing but one good thing is that you can really wear whatever you like or whatever you can buy in Victoria.

[illegible] the new CNR exterior [illegible] of green, black and gold with maple leaf insignia [illegible] of the sides. This arrangement of sleeping accommodations offers the traveler a wide choice [illegible] the CNR [illegible] car. [illegible] and each room has enclosed toilet facilities.

A feature which many travelers will appreciate is the ladder [illegible] to each upper berth [illegible] so that it will no longer be necessary to ring for the porter. When the ladder is not needed the ladders are removed during the day when the berths are closed.

Solid [illegible] and mattresses are [illegible] of foam rubber. The color schemes are of various combinations of blue, rose and beige producing a bright and comfortable atmosphere.

Catholic Institutions Benefit

Several Catholic institutions benefit from the $8,801 estate of Sister Mary Lucretia of the Sisters of St. Ann, who died here last month at the age of 76.

The will was probated in supreme court here this week.

Sister Mary Lucretia, the former Mary Susan Hagan, daughter of prominent early day West Saanich pioneers, left $2,176 to the Sisters of St. Ann, wishing that it be used "for charitable religious and education purposes."

She left $500 to the Marist Fathers of Montfort "for the use of the Church of the Assumption in West Saanich."

CHURCH NEAR FARM

This is the little Catholic church next to the old Hagan farm on the West Saanich Road near Mount Newton Crossroad. In this church Sister Lucretia was baptized and there she attended Mass until she entered the sisterhood, 55 years ago.

The bishop of Victoria, the Rt. Rev. James M. Hill, receives from Sister Mary Lucretia's estate $1,125 "for as much as it will for the educating of a candidate for the priesthood for the Diocese of Victoria."

In her bequest to the Sisters of St. Ann, Sister Lucretia specified that $500 be used for the furnishing of a room in St. Joseph's Hospital.

The rest of Sister Mary Lucretia's estate is divided $2,500 each between her two sisters, Mrs. Virginia Josephine Lovick of Victoria and Miss Larua Helen Hagan who lives in the old Hagan homestead in West Saanich, part of the property of which is now the "Woodwynn Farm" of former Lieutenant Governor W. C. Woodward.

The last time the foreign ministers of Great Britain, United States, France and Russia sat around a conference table was in 1949. Their names were then Bevin, Acheson, Schuman and Vishinsky. Today as they meet in West and East Berlin, people are wondering if the new men—Eden, Dulles, Bidault and Molotov—will bring new policies with them.

It is still too early to tell although it would appear that the old issues are still to be resolved and that is an optimistic word in the old way. [illegible] deadlock were [illegible] used by the world press in 1949. Will they [illegible] the [illegible] conference the day after tomorrow?"

The man in the street may feel [illegible] to [illegible] over the Berlin meetings with the phrase "I couldn't care less." Perhaps there is an element of security in that very tower of indifference but at the best it will provide only a counterfeit refuge.

Every citizen who has some conscience of the future will however [illegible] to [illegible] to impress upon his mind and his heart the vital importance of this present conference.

Depending upon the decisions made there fallible man will either nurture the years of peace or [illegible] the seeds of war.

* * *

Great men make history. At least Thomas Carlyle thought so.

Years ago he declared: "As I take it, universal history, the history of what man has accomplished in this world, is at the bottom the history of the great men who have worked here."

* * *

Those of us who can remember the voice of England in the wartime speeches of Winston Churchill will be inclined to agree.

I wish I could have been a page boy gracing the steps of the Speaker's dais that late December afternoon in 1941 when that doughty Elizabethan addressed himself to the Canadian House of Commons.

What an imperishable picture he made, cheek by jowl as he cathingly characterized "the Hitler tyranny," "the Japanese frenzy" and "the Mussolini flop."

"These gangs of bandits" he said, "have sought to darken the light of the world, have sought to stand between the common people of all the lands and their march forward into their inheritance; they shall themselves be cast into the pit of death and shame, and only when the earth has been cleansed and purged of their crimes and of their villanies will we turn from the task which they have forced upon us, a task which we were reluctant to undertake, but which we shall now most faithfully and punctiliously discharge."

* * *

But other thinkers do not agree with Carlyle.

They tell us that our leaders and our heroes are only bubbles on the vast, dark and inexorable waves of the mass movements which roll through the ages.

They tell us that our leaders are not the makers of history but its victims. History, they tell us, is a despot whose iron rule none can evade.

Personally I must divorce myself from either view, for man is not either the maker or its victim. He is a little of both.

As man seeks to do the will of God so he [illegible] and allies himself with Providence. When he seeks his own ends he acts destructively and allies himself with the powers of darkness.

In my reading the other day I came across a portion of the second annual message to Congress which Abraham Lincoln made:

"Fellow citizens, we cannot escape history. We of this Congress and administration will be remembered in spite of ourselves. No personal significance or insignificance can spare one or another of us. The fiery trial through which we pass will light us down in honor or dishonor to the latest generation . . . We, even we here, hold the power and bear the responsibility. We shall nobly save or meanly lose the last best hope of the earth."

I hope that somebody at the Berlin conference has read his Lincoln.

Soviets Buy More Goods

LONDON (AP) — Moscow radio said Tuesday night that residents of the Soviet Union bought 21 per cent more retail goods last year than in 1950. Figures of the amounts sold were not given, but the broadcast heard here said trade developed with marked intensity during the second half of 1953 due to an expansion in the production of consumer goods and a reduction in state retail prices.

CHAMBER WILL ASSIST

The Victoria Chamber of Commerce has offered its services to a new Canadian company, Locana Corporation Ltd., which has been set up by Harrisons and Crossfield Ltd., import and export merchants, in association with Hambros Bank.

Purpose of the new company is to assist British manufacturers wishing to enter the Canadian market, to obtain advice, finance, management and sales facilities.

Easy To Transport for Car-Top Boats

Handy Outboards Gain in Popularity

New improved outboard motors are taking the place of air-cooled inboard motors in sports craft, Dave Angus said yesterday.

He noted a substantial decrease last year in the sale of inboard motors but a sharp increase in the sale of outboards.

More popular use of car top boats, boat trailers, improved engineering of outboard motors and boats designed for use with outboards were the main reasons he cited for the trend.

In recent years outboard motors have improved greatly, he said. Innovations are the new quiet outboard motors and electric starting on [illegible] h.p. models.

MORE EFFICIENCY

Their efficiency has been increased until their operation is now almost perfect, he said.

They increase the boat speed over that of those powered by inboards and the outboards can easily be carried in a car, he said.

Mr. Angus said he sold more boats and boating equipment last year than any other year since he started in business.

'Preferred' Position Favors B.C. on Dam

PORTLAND, Ore. (UP) — British Columbia is in a preferred position to negotiate right now the international problems incident to proposed construction of Libby dam on the Columbia River, Robert E. Sommers, provincial minister of lands and forests, said here yesterday.

Sommers told four Northwest governors that his province has the authority to reach agreement with the United States without reference to the Canadian government. The federal government, he said, is depending on British Columbia to set a precedent in such agreements.

Two proposed projects in the Northwest would require agreement with Canadian officials because of the effect they would have on upstream lands and stream flow across the international boundary. The two are Libby dam on the Columbia and Seattle city light's Skagit project. One question awaiting solution is the division of upstream and downstream benefits.

The governors of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana, members of the Northwest governors' power policy committee, said they would present the problem to President Eisenhower in April at Washington.

Responsibility for a [illegible] report was delegated to the governors' engineering committee. It was to be submitted at a meeting April 21 in Victoria.

Veteran Remarries After Divorce at 91

MIKEVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Booker Wright, 91-year-old veteran of the Spanish-American war who won an uncontested divorce from 61-year-old Martha Bell Wright last December 22, has remarried, the county clerk's office said Tuesday. Records disclosed that Wright and Rebecca Johnson, 47, of Etta, applied for a license last Friday. The clerk's office said the license had been used, but had no other details.

Civil Defense Course Set At Langford

LANGFORD—Civil defense headquarters has announced that a basic welfare course under the direction of H. Harris will commence in Langford Thursday, February 18 at 8 p.m., in St. Matthew's Parish Hall.

The course will last six weeks and on completion of the fourth lecture a special exercise will be held when a group from Victoria will attend, headed by L. Hatcher, target area director.

SEVERAL SUBJECTS

Subjects to be discussed will include the role of a welfare centre, welfare centre organization, welfare centre planning, operations, emergency lodging, feeding and clothing, forms used and personnel.

It is hoped that there will be a large attendance at the lectures in order that an adequate welfare centre may be established in Langford to cope with any emergency which might arise.

Reputation Harmed, Editor Ordered To Pay

VIENNA (Reuters)—A court Tuesday ordered a Vienna newspaper editor to pay 1,000 schillings (about $40) to a railroad man's daughter who, the judge said, was accused in an article of an "adventure" with ex-King Farouk of Egypt. Lydia Wendl, who claimed that her reputation was harmed, had asked for 25,000 schillings damages from the editor of the paper, Welt am Montag.

Where on Earth

Is Flirting Against The Law?

by TED ATWOOD

When it comes to complimenting a woman on the street, probably few men on earth are as adept at the practice as Madriders. For in Madrid the gallant Spaniard has virtually developed his greeting into a form of high art.

Such trite forms of salutation as "Hello beautiful" or "You're cute going my way?" are unknown in this romantic old city. Although there are a few standard compliments as "You're so pretty you could stop a train," the great majority of Madrid men prefer to be original, using such devastating phrases as "When you shut your eyes the winds from your eyelashes blow me away" and "I wish my teeth were made of fire so I could melt the bars of your balcony."

But if complimenting a beautiful woman on the street is considered gallantry in Madrid, in Egypt the practice is outlawed. President Maj. Gen. Mohammed Naguib recently decreed that any man caught flirting with a woman on an Egyptian street is to be locked up for seven days. If the culprit repeats the offense, he is imprisoned for six months. And oddly enough, so strict is the law that the penalty is not even affected by whether the woman winks back.

Although Gen. Naguib has decreed complimenting a strange woman on the street "a symptom of moral disintegration," in this writer's opinion it will take more than one edict to stem the laws of human [illegible]. A Spanish law was passed in Seville, whereby any man who spoke to a strange woman was liable to a fine. Latest reports from Seville say that the men have gotten around it by putting their hands over their lips every time they see a pretty girl. The gesture usually breaks the girls up.

Whatever system you play, you will be able to play better if you know your partner and your opponents. We know a player who never cuts into a game that includes even one strange player until he has had a chance to see for himself how that stranger plays. He may sit out for a rubber or two, if need be, and he always parks himself in the chair behind the stranger. Then, when he does cut in he is likely to play better both as the stranger's partner and as his opponent.

Today's hand, played by Sam Fry, Jr., illustrates the advantage of knowing your players. In this instance, he knew that West was a player who simply hated to make dangerous leads; he didn't like to lead away from honors unless he had a combination that could let him lead the top of touching cards, or at worst the middle of a broken sequence like king jack ten. So Sam was surprised when, as declarer on this deal, he got the four of diamonds opening and the finesse of dummy's queen succeeded. He played a trump to his hand and put up the king; then he cashed the ace king of clubs and ruffed the third club in dummy—and West's queen appeared. It was pretty obvious that West also had one, but not both, of the missing honors in hearts or he'd have led that suit. But why didn't he lead a trump?

When Sam led the second round of trumps from dummy and East followed with a small card the mathematical percentage strongly favored the finesse. But Sam put up the ace of spades because he knew that unless West had the queen of spades or a singleton he would surely have led a trump as his opening lead. If West had a singleton, Sam wasn't going to be able to escape a trump loser. If he had the queen, he could escape the trump loser only if the queen dropped. On this reasoning, percentage had to be disregarded. When the queen of spades dropped Sam made his slam.

THREE SHOWS—

There will be three shows; two 8 p.m. performances and a matinee at 2.30 p.m. March 20.

More than 600 Victoria figure skaters will appear in the 12-act show, all but 100 of them children.

Two of the acts are large scale productions. "Peter Pan" has a cast of 320 and "The Wedding of the Painted Doll" has more than 200.

The whole show will use 1,500 costumes, made by mothers of children in the cast. The ladies have been working on costumes eight hours a day, three days a week for two months.

ADDITIONAL TIME

Because of the popularity of Dick Button, the show directors have doubled the time allowed him for encores, but on the program he is scheduled for three numbers.

He is five times a world champion, was once named European champion and three times North American champion. He has taken highest honors in figure skating in the United States seven years in succession.

A native of Englewood, N.J., he is a recent graduate of Harvard.

OTHER STARS

Appearing in the show with Mr. Button, will be the Connaught Four, Western Canadian figure skating championship team.

A clown is also expected to be booked for the show, but there has been no official confirmation of this yet.

Advance tickets sales are now open by mail from the Central Ticket Bureau, 817 Fort.

Box office sales open at the same bureau on March 8. Special rates for children have been arranged for the Saturday matinee, Mrs. W. H. R. Wallis, publicity convener said yesterday.

Carlow Won't Ask Bail Over Crown Opposition

James J. Proudfoot, counsel for Robert Carlow who was committed for trial last week on charges of stealing a safe from the New Method Laundry in December, said yesterday he will not seek bail for Carlow.

He said the attorney-general's department is opposed to bail for Carlow and it appeared useless to try.

He said his client would elect for speedy trial. He has until Friday to do so.

During his preliminary hearing last week a witness for the prosecution said Carlow had threatened to kill her if she gave evidence against him. It is believed to be because of this the attorney-general's department is opposed to bail.

Mrs. Holder Will Head Church Choir

Mrs. Dorothy Holder was elected president of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Choir when that organization held its annual meeting recently.

Other officers elected were: Miss Mary Stevenson, vice-president; Miss Mary Lou Park, recording secretary; Miss Margaret McKay; corresponding secretary; Gordon Horwood, treasurer; Mrs. F. Greenway, gown mistress; Walter Holder, William McColl, and Alex Kirker, librarians; and Mrs. Edith Jackson, publicity and press secretary.

C. C. Warren, organist and choirmaster, was thanked for the work he had done with the choir.

Animal Question Box

Round Collar Preferred; Harness Taboo

BY B. ROBERT MAGGS

Quite a meeting the SPCA had last week. About 200 people attended and although the meeting was 10 minutes late in starting, it was all over at 9.15. I think that sets some kind of a record in briefness. In fact, the re-elected president, Mr. Dunsmuir, seemed positively embarrassed because it was over so abruptly and when someone moved that the meeting be adjourned everyone seemed reluctant to go. Next year I would suggest that they have a dinner and dance to make it stretch out a few hours! Anyway, I want to thank Mr. Dunsmuir for his kind words and wish the society every success for the coming year.

Perhaps there will be times when we will not agree about something, but as long as the executive committee strives for better conditions for animals it will have my full support, and the support of members of the society, even though, as I said, we may not always agree. I am glad the personalities have been removed from SPCA discussions.

Mrs. D. L. F. has a female German shepherd who was not very particular in her affairs and mated with a black labrador —result, four male pups. They should be beauties with that kind of cross breeding. Mrs. F. would like to get good homes for the pups, and also a good country home for the mother. She is very good with children, but has been raised outside and is not housebroken. She would make an excellent pet and outside watchdog. Should you wish to have one of the pups or the mother dog, call me and I will give you the owner's phone number. Speaking of phoning, if you wish to phone me at E 5926, please do so after 6 p.m.

I have a request from a lady who would like to get a Peke, not a puppy but a full grown one, and a female preferred. I am happy to report that the majority of people requesting dogs are asking for females. It used to be that no one wanted the poor females, but more people are finding out that the female dog is usually gentler, cleaner, and more apt to stay on her own property instead of wandering off. And a spayed female is no trouble at all.

Mrs. T. L. wants to know which type of collar I prefer on a dog, and what about harnesses?

A. The ideal type of collar as regards comfort and cleanliness is the round type. If you are training the dog, of course, you should use the metal choke-chain collar for the training periods, but be sure to remove it when the training session is over. If you don't the dog is apt to get hung up by the loose chain collar. Harnesses are strictly taboo as far as I am concerned. They cramp the dog and encourage him to pull at the lead rather than to walk at heel.

When I speak of the round type of collar I mean the leather one with slip loops at each end. They automatically adjust to the size of the dog's neck. The flat type leather collar usually has a felt lining which prevents it from being washed and disinfected as it should be once in a while.

Mrs. V. S. M. wants to know if sawdust is all right for the floor of a dog kennel.

A. I do not like to use sawdust anywhere around animals. The main reason for my objection is that they are very apt to drop food, a bone, etc.—on the sawdust and then pick it up and swallow a certain amount of the sawdust which inevitably adheres to it. This sawdust gets into the intestinal tract and swells, causing great discomfort and setting up an irritation which can cause a great deal of trouble. Better to use good clean straw.

Thousands of Shares of Nothing

Stock Find No Good, House Wrecker Told

Dreams of a rich strike disappeared for Vancouver house wrecker Henry Perpet yesterday, when the registrar of companies in Victoria advised him that 4,800 shares of stock he found in an old house are worthless.

The house wrecker was tearing an old building apart in downtown Vancouver when he found a satchel containing shares of Mineral Sands Ltd. But the company was struck off the register in 1932 for failing to file reports.

Mr. Perpet was recently awarded $75 when he found $3,500 in bonds, part of a Nanaimo robbery of about a year ago.

RISE IN ALCOHOLISM SERIOUS HERE

Officials Concerned

Study Discloses One in 40 In B.C. Now Problem Drinker

Local officials, alarmed over the increase in alcoholism, expressed grave concern last night over a survey by the Ontario government-sponsored Alcoholism Research Foundation indicating that B.C. has a greater number of alcoholics per capita than any other province in Canada.

The three-year survey, first of its kind in Canada, showed that Western Canada has a greater proportion of drinkers than the East, with B.C. heading the list with 81 per cent of its adult population listed as drinkers.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said the survey would no doubt receive close study by the alcoholism foundation established recently in B.C. through joint efforts of the government and private agencies. The new foundation is preparing to enter an active organizational phase.

The attorney-general said he had not seen the Ontario survey and would prefer to study it before offering further comment.

E. A. Bergeron, executive secretary of the John Howard Society, said the report underlined the fact that alcoholism is beginning to be recognized by Canadians as a No. 1 social disease in the same category as tuberculosis, heart disease and diabetes.

Mr. Bergeron estimated that 70 per cent of the nation's prison population results directly or indirectly from alcoholism though individuals concerned don't regard themselves as alcoholics.

He stated also that a high percentage of professional and business people are affected to varying degrees by the physical, mental and spiritual disease of alcoholism.

Government leadership in tackling the problem would prove very beneficial he said, adding that rehabilitation centres had been established in Ontario, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

Rev. G. R. Easter, of First Baptist Church, said the survey disclosed a lamentable condition and declared a sympathetic government could assist greatly in halting the spread of alcoholism.

Spokesmen for the Victoria Medical Association expressed surprise that the report didn't show a higher incidence of alcoholism in B.C.

One doctor estimated that one person in 25 of the total population is a problem drinker and one in 15 of those who drink at all is a problem drinker.

The doctor said many drinkers are "quiet drinkers" who are never identified as alcoholics.

"Alcoholism," agreed another doctor, "is a tremendously serious problem in this province."

Incidence of alcoholism is high in B.C. because it is still a frontier province and because industrialization is on the increase, he explained.

The doctor classed alcoholism with drug addiction and juvenile delinquency as the three major problems to be faced in this province.

Another doctor estimated there are probably between 3,000 and 4,000 problem drinkers in Victoria alone.

Spokesmen doubted, however, that there is more drinking per capita in Canada than the U.S.

The report shows that in 1952 B.C. had 2,532 alcoholics per 100,000 population over 20 years of age. Quebec ranked second with 1,813. Other provincial figures: Ontario 1,687, Nova Scotia 1,286, New Brunswick 1,278, Manitoba 1,173, Saskatchewan 1,167, Alberta 980, Prince Edward Island 675 and Newfoundland 501.

The survey said that a higher percentage of Canadians than United States citizens drink.

It states that 70 per cent of Canada's adult population drink, 76 per cent of the male population and 64 per cent of the female population. U.S. ratio is 70 per cent of men and

Unhappy Time

Agony portrayed here by Thor Arngrim and Stewart Baker is just one more facet of the theatrical production business. The two Totem Theatre directors have been cast as teachers for Vancouver boy actor, Barry Smith, appearing in the present production "The Happy Time." Barry was given three weeks off from school to play here on the promise he would keep up his studies, and the two directors have to see to it, but they don't have to like it.

Captain Proudfoot Board Possibility

Former Victoria Liberal MLA Capt. D. J. Proudfoot will probably be nominated for the Victoria Public Library Board at city council meeting today.

CAPT. D. J. PROUDFOOT

Captain Proudfoot may be proposed by Ald. Millard Mooney to fill the vacancy made when Col. Walter Mosedale resigned for lack of residence qualifications.

Meanwhile, Ald. Robert Macmillan has been searching for nominees for the same vacancy. Alderman Macmillan's last nominee, Prof. Robert Wallace, beat out Mayor Claude Harrison's choice, P. J. Sinnott, in a council vote.

Professor Wallace subsequently went to the first board meeting and put up a stirring defense for dismissed bookmobile director John M. Marshall.

It is understood Alderman Macmillan had asked Provincial Archivist Willard Ireland to serve, but the provincial government said he could not.

(For city reaction to Ald. Robert Macmillan's challenge to Ald. Brent Murdoch's library board membership, see Page 15.)

Speak Your Mind on Party Line

Here's One Man's Solution

By THE JUDGE

Well, after all the Judge has learned from letters lately, he'll either have to get his phone taken out or get himself off the party line. He didn't know what he was missing!

After this, the Judge is going to be an awfully hard man to deal with on the phone. At the slightest "click" of a listener on the party line, he'll know just what to say to burn the ears off them.

He got a real bang out of today's winning letter. Maybe this is the only real way to solve party line difficulties. Drastic step, though.

Here is the letter:

Dear Judge,

Mine was the kindest, most considerate party line in town.

Whenever I was phoned, she lifted her receiver quickly so the ringing didn't disturb me. If I had occasion to phone, she had the line engaged, thus giving me time to carefully consider what to say . . . Ofttimes her winter calls came through about 2.30 a.m., awakening me in time to check the furnace, enabling me to sleep with greater peace of mind until dawn.

And to top it off she now pays my phone bill. I married her!

MORTON GOLD,
2898 Austin Avenue.

(Man! What some people will do to get rid of party line nuisances. What are you trying to do, Mr. Gold, get the Judge hooked for bigamy? Can't marry them all.)

Dear Judge,

A friend of mine lived near Golden some 40 years ago when everybody shared the one line. There were two well-known and incurable listeners-in (call them Mrs. McSnort and Mrs. FeFoo).

One day, my friend phoning a pal of his, heard the tell-tale "click" on the line.

"Be careful what you say, Bill," he warned. "Mrs. McSnort is with us again."

An indignant female voice broke in: "You're wrong, young man. It isn't me, it's Mrs. McFoo."

M. BIDWELL,
599 St. Patrick.

(We guess she got laughed right off the line. Too bad both of the listeners weren't on the line at that moment.)

Dread Disease Slashes Flock

BY HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

A Victoria poultryman has had his flock drastically reduced by an outbreak of Newcastle Disease, possibly the worst attack ever to have struck Vancouver Island.

The unfortunate farmer is A. E. Goodwin, 1848 Holland. When the disease struck first shortly after Christmas Mr. Goodwin had nearly 3,000 laying birds, and between 4,000 and 5,000 fryers.

More than 5,000 birds have died, and Mr. Goodwin has been informed that he can expect no compensation from the department of agriculture for his loss.

Dr. F. W. B. Smith, district veterinarian in Vancouver, said yesterday that Ottawa had ruled that as the department now supplies a Newcastle Disease vaccine to poultrymen they are no longer required to give compensation for flocks struck by the dread disease.

"There have not been more than one or two small cases of Newcastle Disease so far this year on Vancouver Island," said Dr. Smith. "The result is that many poultrymen on the Island have not taken the precaution of vaccinating."

He strongly advised all poultrymen to vaccinate their flocks, and said the department had sent sufficient quantities of the vaccine to Victoria.

A report on the epidemic first came to light in a farm news publication issued by the department of agriculture in Ottawa and dated February 3.

It said, "A large poultry flock near Victoria has been quarantined for Newcastle Disease, reports the health of animals division, Ottawa. The disease first appeared in the mature laying flock numbering approximately 2,800-2,900 birds. The owner attempted to protect his broiler flock of 4,000-5,000 birds by vaccinating the one-week and four-week old chicks. Apparently the disease was already in the broiler birds in the incubative stage, since in the younger birds the mortality was quite heavy.

"The flock is being kept under quarantine untill it returns to normal health. In the meantime the owner will be permitted to market any apparently healthy birds, if he so desires, without compensation."

Mr. Goodwin was not at his farm yesterday. He had left for the Mainland with his wife.

A relative said that the strain had been tremendous and the pair were taking a short holiday.

The losses total more than 5,000 birds and many of those which have survived are in poor snape.

Mr. Goodwin has not decided on future plans, but authority has now been received to have the henhouses fumigated and cleaned.

Mr. Goodwin started his farm from scratch about five years ago and normally he has about 8,000 to 10,000 chicks.

His main business is in 8 week fryers, but he also has a considerable egg business.

Most of his produce is sold locally.

Vancouver Island, with the rest of British Columbia, suffered a major epidemic of Newcastle Disease in the spring of 1950. More than 200,000 birds had to be slaughtered to protect the flocks and many others died. There was a lesser outbreak in the summer of 1952.

Foe in Sight Of Capital

HANOI, Indo-China (AP)—Advance rebel guards pressed within six miles and sight of Luang Pranbang's golden-roofed palace and pagodas Wednesday night, but the defenders expressed confidence they could throw back any Communist-led Vietminh assault on Laos' royal capital.

Reports received here indicated the advance rebel units were mostly regional troops, recruited to pave the way for the 308th Vietminh Division, still about 30 miles to the northeast. The division, which covered 120 miles in four days, is believed resting and gathering fresh rice supplies.

About 1,100 of the rebel regional troops had made some contact with Luang Prabang's defenders about 10 miles from the city limits, French informants said.

Qualified observers here believe that the Vietminh, if it really plans an all-out assault on Luang Prabang instead of pulling away from its approaches as it did last May, will not likely be able to attack for at least another week.

If the rebels attack, they will likely have to depend mainly on mortars to lay down a barrage opening the way for their infantry.

Gunderson Reported Quitting Soon

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Vancouver News-Herald, in a front-page story today, says B.C.'s finance minister Einar Gunderson will submit his resignation to the premier Monday.

The story says Premier Bennett will go to Government House shortly after to be sworn in as minister of finance by Lieutenant-Governor Clarence Wallace.

Man Charged With Murder

OTTAWA (CP)—Hugh Conrad Hayes, 33-year-old unemployed radio technician who was evicted four days ago for not paying his rent, was charged Wednesday night with murder in connection with the death of his former landlady.

The charge was laid less than four hours after Grace Currie, 61, was found shot to death in a two-room apartment from which Hayes was evicted last Saturday.

Hero's Homecoming

Friends and neighbors stage a hero's welcome for John Hvasta, the young man who escaped from a Czechoslovakian prison two years ago and eventually reached the American Embassy in Prague. As an automobile parade moves through the streets of Hillside, N.J., John stands in a car waving a small flag. His parents are in front and his brother is in the back seat.—(Central Press Canadian.)

Three Men Lost In Atlantic Gale

HALIFAX (CP)—The worst storm of the winter lashed the Atlantic Coast Tuesday night, apparently claimed three lives and sank a fishing vessel.

The storm, bred at sea south of Nova Scotia, was creating winds of only 30 miles an hour when it hit Newfoundland's south coast early Wednesday.

Snow was generally light, but up to 10 inches fell in some areas of the Maritimes.

The fishing vessel Liberator, at first feared to have gone down, sailed without her crew into her home port of Glace Bay, N.S., in an early-morning haze. There was no sign of Capt. Tom Barrett, Paul Ford, 19, and Jake Burke, 19.

Captain Barrett's tiny vessel, her rigging limp and twisted, drifted into port unmanned. She followed shoreward a long trail of broken hatches and fishing gear that had drifted to within a few hundred yards of the dock from which she sailed the day before.

Meanwhile, Capt. Edward Fitzgerald of Marystown, Nfld., said he and his four crew members fought a losing battle against the seas before they were rescued from the 47-foot Keith V. Colin by the Halifax trawler Cape Smoky.

The missing fishing vessel, Jemma H. of Port Morien, N.S., turned up at her home port after an 18-hour battle for survival. Her three-man crew was reported well.

Talks Open For Deal

VANCOUVER (CP)—Sir Andrew Jones, head of the British food mission in Canada, opened negotiations Wednesday with the Fisheries Association of British Columbia for a possible $5,000,000 purchase of B.C. canned salmon.

Drive Will Help Her, Too

Elk Hunter Found Safe

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (AP)—An elk hunter unreported since Monday was found safe Wednesday in an abandoned cabin three miles from his Blue Mountains camp.

The hunter, Milton L. Stewart, 35, of Pullman, Wash., was reported in good condition.

Labor Body Supports John Marshall

Dismissed library employee John Marshall won the support of the Victoria Labor Council Wednesday evening.

The council advocated the reinstatement of Mr. Marshall and the resignation of C. L. Harrison as mayor and of James Neely, Ald. Brent Murdoch and Mrs. Doris Lougheed from the Victoria Public Library board.

Actions of Thressa Pollock, librarian who recently tendered her resignation, were also supported by the council.

Pearson Set For Holiday

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson is leaving for a 10-day vacation in the United States, his first holiday of that length in four or five years. He and Mrs. Pearson will fly first to New York and then continue on to Florida.
